Storm Nears Haiti

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Hurricane Beulah battered the southern coast of the Dominican Republic with 125-mile-an-hour killer winds today and aimed her fury westward toward the voodoo island of Haiti, most heavily populated country in the Western Hemisphere.

More than 1,000 persons in the Dominican Republic's Barahona Peninsula fled the advancing storm, blamed for 16 deaths in the eastern Caribbean.

There was no immediate word from the peninsula, where hurricanes bring traditional flooding. More than a dozen persons lost their lives there last year when Hurricane Inez swept through.

Forecasters in Miami said Beulah's westward course would take her across the peninsula on a route that would carry her parallel with Haiti's Massif du Nord mountain range.

At 10 a.m., EDT, Beulah's calm eye was located over the Barahona Peninsula at Latitude 17.8 North, Longitude 71.6 West, or about 70 miles southeast of Port Au Prince, Haiti and some 650 miles southeast of Miami.

Weathermen also kept track of Hurricane Chloe and Hurricane Doria in the Atlantic.

Doria, off the Virginia Capes, was plotted near Latitude 36.2 North, Longitude 72.0 West. Chloe, far out to sea, was put near Latitude 26.5 North, Longitude 47.0 West.

"Heavy rains and massive flooding are certainly in store for Haiti and these are the things that can cause deaths," said Dr. Robert H. Simpson of the National Hurricane Center at Miami. "This storm definitely will give Haiti a lot of trouble." Dr. Simpson said wind currents near the mountain range could easily sweep the massive storm across the range and into Haiti's narrow valleys, causing them to flood.

Residents in Haiti and along the southern Coast of Eastern Cuba were warned to take immediate precautions against flooding and storm tides up to eight feet above normal.

Dr. Simpson said Beulah would probably either pass by or across the Haitian peninsula during the evening.

In either case, her winds would affect the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo, only 60 miles from the tip of the peninsula, on Cuba's southeastern coast. Spokesmen at the base said storm preprations began Sunday night.

The storm skirted Santo Domingo, the Dominican Republic's coastal capital but gale force winds and heavy rains hit the city Sunday night after raking sections of Puerto Rico earlier in the day.

The steep mountains and narrow valleys of the Barahona Peninsula and Haiti's long, narrow western peninsula act as huge spillways when tropical storms dump their millions of gallons of water.

In 1963, Hurricane Flora passed through Haiti, causing thousands of deaths. Last year, Inez was blamed for an estimated 200 in Haiti where most of the nearly 5,000,000 natives live in rickety shacks.

Gibraltar Favors British Rule

GIBRALTAR (AP)— The residents of the Rock went wild with joy Sunday night over the results of their referendum giving Britain a crushing, 99 per cent victory over Spain.

Only 44 of Gibraltar's 12,672 registered voters voted Sunday in favor of returning the colony to Spain after 263 years of British rule.

Lines in City to Expand

A housing and urban development grant of $892,000 for assistance in construction of improvements to water and sewer lines in Sikeston was announced today by Sens. Stuart Symington, Edward V. Long and Rep. Paul C. Jones.

The grant matches money approved for water and sewer lines improvements, which were included in the May, 1965, $1,200,000 bond issue.

Initial phases of the water and sewer improvements approved by passage of the bond issue currently are underway.

"This grant will allow us to install almost twice as many water and sewer lines," E. R. Inman, director of the city light and water department said today.

The money will be for sewer and water lines into new areas for potential development of industry and residential areas, Inman said.

Work to be accomplished by approval of the grant includes:

1. Installation of new water mains and enlarging existing mains in the Sunset area.

2. A more extensive water system to be installed in the airport industrial area.

3. Construction of sewer lines to the west city limits industrial area in the general vicinity of Malone & Hyde Inc.

4. Installation of 12" sewer lines to the undeveloped industrial area north of the steam plant.

5. The work, also, will probably include a pumping station to help the north end of town. It would help pump sewage to the treatment plant located off Ables Road south of the Sikeston Concrete Products Co., Ingram Road.

Kansas Beauty Begins Miss America Reign

NEW YORK (AP)— "Just look at all the tall buildings," exclaimed Debra Dene Barnes, the new Miss America, as she got her first glimpse of New York.

Things looked a lot different in her home town, Moran, Kan. — population 550.

The 20-year-old blue-eyed brunette— 5-foot-9— 135 pounds— and 36½-24-36½— is here on the first stop of about 200,000 miles she will travel during her year-long reign.

She arrived by car Sunday night from Atlantic City, N.J., where she was crowned Saturday night in the windup of the Miss America Pageant.

Miss Barnes, who checked into a midtown hotel with the four ladies of her court, told newsmen she would "love to go" to Vietnam to entertain U. S. troops as her predecessor, Jane Anne Jayroe, did. There were no immediate plans for that, however.

Asked at a news conference in Atlantic City what she would do if she suddenly had $1 million, Miss America, a music major in college, said: "I would buy a grand piano and donate the rest to research for multiple sclerosis."

Her mother, Mrs. Dwight Barnes, was stricken with the crippling muscle disease 11 years ago and has been bedridden in a hospital at Fort Scott, Kan., for the last 2½ years.

The new Miss America is a junior at Kansas State College at Pittsburg. After college she wants to teach piano at the college level and play in concerts. She received a $10,000 scholarship for winning the title and will earn an estimated $90,000 in personal appearance fees.

Wedding Bells to Ring for Lynda Bird in December

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A White House wedding in early December is planned for Lynda Bird Johnson and Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, who met the President's daughter in the line of duty.

Smiling, holding hands, the young couple flew back from Texas Sunday night aboard the presidential jet plane after President and Mrs. Johnson announced their engagement from the LBJ ranch.

Lynda, 23, the Johnsons' older daughter, showed off her sparkling diamond engagement ring, but ignored photographers' requests to kiss her 28-year-old fiance, a tall, slender, dark-haired young man from Milwaukee, Wis.

The surprise announcement of Lynda's engagement ended continued speculation over the romantic interest of the president's daughter. She had numerous beaus through the years and broke an engagement to a young Navy lieutenant three years ago.

Until Robb came along, Lynda had been dating Hollywood actor George Hamilton more than anyone else. A few weeks ago, though, Hamilton declared "marriage is not in the immediate future."

Robb, who plans to make the Marines his career and is scheduled to go to Vietnam in February, first met Lynda a little more than a year ago when he was assigned to the White House as a military social aide.

Child Found With Ross Family

State police in Tucumcari, N. M., arrested Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross, Sikeston, Sunday on a kidnapping warrant charging they took Tracy Lynn Sisk, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sisk, 242 Daniel.

The warrant was issued Sunday by prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick.

The child was reported missing at 7:58 p.m. Friday by her father. She was placed in a foster home in Tucumcari, until her parents arrive. Mr. and Mrs. Sisk left Sikeston Sunday and should arrive in New Mexico late today or tomorrow, Potashnick said.

Tracy was in good health and apparently happy to be with the Rosses according to New Mexico state police, Potashnick said.

The warrent was issued to protect the New Mexico state police from making a false arrest, Potashnick said.

The officer who questioned the Rosses Sunday reported they told him that Mrs. Sisk told them to take the child with them, Potashnick said.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisk said Saturday morning that they told Ross to drive the child around the block and return her home.

The Rosses are being held in jail at Tucumcari and will appear before a circuit judge today to give them a chance to waive extradition so they can be returned to Missouri, Potashnick said.

They (the Rosses) indicated to the arresting officers that they would waive extradition and were naxious to clear the matter. Their story as to why the child was with them conflicted with the account given by Tracy's parents, Potashnick related.

They also said that Tracy had been living with them about half of the time for the past few months he added.

Kennedy Prepares 3 Bills To Regulate Cigarettes

NEW YORK (AP)— Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said today he will introduce three bills to regulate the cigarette industry because, he said, it is "peddling a deadly weapon" through what he called a largely ineffective self-regulation code.

His promise to introduce the bills in the Senate Tuesday was coupled with a declaration that cigarette companies are "dealing in people's lives for financial gain."

Kennedy made the announcement in a speech prepared for the three-day World Conference on Smoking and Health which opened today.

He said, "Cigarettes would have been banned years ago were it not for the tremendous economic power of their producers."

Two of his bills, he said, are aimed at countering some of the effects of advertising by the cigarette companies, which he said costs almost $300 million a year.

The first would extend the 1965 law, so that all advertising would have to carry the message: "Warning: Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous to Health and May Cause Death from Cancer and Other Diseases."

The Federal Communications Commission would have the power under the second bill to regulate the times and types of broadcast programs on which cigarette advertising may appear, as well as the over-all volume of cigarette advertising.

The third bill would establish a sliding federal tax on cigarettes to replace the present flat $4 per 1,000, to encourage the production of cigarettes with less tar and nicotine.

The tobacco industry contends there is no scientific proof of a link between smoking and cancer.

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, a vice president of the American Cancer Society, said in a prepared conference speech that smoking cigarettes shortens the life span— as much as eight years for the two-pack-a-day man who is now 25 years old.

Hammond, a medical statistician, said that a 25-year-old American male who smokes two packs a day or more has an average life expectancy of 65.3 years. He said the average lifetime would be 73.6 years for the same young man if he never smoked regularly.

Hammond's figures were drawn from the cancer society's long-range look at the circumstances and habits of American life for hints to what leads to various causes of death.

The society's study covers 447,196 men of all ages. Up to June 30, 1965, over 39,000 enrolled in the study had died.

It showed that even a few cigarettes smoked regularly are harmful, Hammond said.

For the 25-year-old male who smokes up to nine cigarettes a day, the average life expectancy is 69, five years short of the average for non-smokers, Hammond said.

The conference is sponsored by 22 agencies and organizations, representing the federal government and health, professional, and service organizations. Many of the member groups are on the record as condemning cigarette smoking as injurious to health. The council itself is dedicated to spreading information on the hazards of cigarettes and tobacco.

N.Y. Teachers Defy Courts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A teacher walkout described by union leaders as 90 per cent effective crippled the fall opening of New York City's massive million-pupil school system today while teachers continued walkouts in Detroit and other cities.

New York teachers, defying a court order, stayed home or manned picket lines. In Michigan a move was made to try to stay a similar injunction order.

In Detroit, more than 4,000 teachers heard a union leader vow to continue the walkout "until the snow flies" if necessary, and heard a promise of support from the United Auto Workers, whose members are on strike against the Ford Motor Co.

Michigan Gov. George Romney refused to ask the legislature to appropriate money to meet the teachers' demands.

New York's Board of Education was attempting to keep schools open in the absence of thousands of teachers, but many classes had to be dismissed de-

Breathitt Takes Up Plea for Tax Sharing Plan

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky warned the Southern Governors Conference today that the "overcentralization of government is a real danger" and can be stopped only "when the states meet their own responsibilities."

To help the states, Breathitt called for a federal-state tax sharing plan.

"The only avenue toward fiscal freedom for state and local governments," he said, "lies in a general, unearmarked revenue-sharing plan" with the federal government or possibly a very strong, generous tax ax credit at the federal level for state income taxes."

The Kentucky Democrat, chairman of the conference, made the comments in a prepared address for the four-day meeting's opening session.

Breathitt called on state governments to "prevent the ruthless destruction of our soil, water, air and scenic resources."

And he said, states should encourage "fresh and original approaches to the solution of our educational problems."

Meanwhile, the governors attending the conference were to discuss at length today Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's controversial proposal to reorganize National Guard units.

Port of Cam Pha Heavily Damaged by First U.S. Attack

Bloomfield Woman Dies at Car Wheel

Mrs. Arlene Bess, 47, Bloomfield, was killed when she apparently fell asleep while driving her car at 4:15 a.m. Sunday on highway 60, two miles west of Sikeston, the highway patrol said.

The car went out of control and overturned.

She was born March 25, 1920, at Puxico.

In November, 1938, she married Donald L. Bess, who survives. He is the Bloomfield postmaster.

Other survivors are two sons, Thomas and Donald Bess, Jr., both of Gorham, Ill.; one brother, Clarence Harbin, Long Beach, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Paul Anderson, Cape Girardeau, and three grandchildren.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the First Baptist church in Bloomfield with the Rev. Guy Magee officiating.

Outnumbered Marines Cut Off Invaders

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy planes delivered a smashing blow Sunday at Cam Pha in North Vietnam and pilots reported they all but knocked out that port, used to export coal to pay for arms from abroad. It was the first raid on Cam Pha, previously on the Pentagon's restricted list.

Aground, U.S. Marines outnumbered 4 to 1 beat back 3,000 North Vietnamese who apparently were trying to cut off their supply base at Con Thien near the demilitarized zone. The U.S. Command said at least 141 enemy troops were killed. Marine losses were 34 killed and 185 wounded.

South Vietnamese troops also were heavily engaged Sunday in the northern area. They reported killing 70 Communist troops. The Reds replied early today with a mortar and ground attack on the provincial capital of Hoi An, three district headquarters and five militia outposts.

Until the raid Sunday, the port of Cam Pha north of the main major one at Haiphong, had been immune from attack although antiaircraft sites on its outskirts were blasted in June. That was when pilots strafed the Soviet merchant ship Turkistan in Cam Pha harbor.

Striking deep into North Vietnam, Air Forces planes ran into MIG17s. One Communist jet was probably downed by an F105 Thunderchief pilot, who said it flipped over and vanished after his cannon fire ripped into its wings.

The battle between Marines and North Vietnamese in the north was one of almost daily engagements since last Monday. The allied commands have reported more than 900 of the enemy killed in the five northern provinces where the North Vietnamese are expected to try an offensive. U.S. casualties have totaled 149 killed and 567 wounded, nearly all of them Marines.

Marine forces today were sweeping the bloody field 4½ miles south of the demilitarized zone where they hit the North Vietnamese regiment Sunday.

The Marines had been moving from the nearby bunkered fortress of Con Thien when the fight erupted among low hills and thick brush. There were four Marine companies— less than 800 men at field strength— initially split into two sweeping flanks.

While the Marines called in air and artillery strikes, the Reds replied with the big 140mm Russian rockets which are among their heaviest weapons.

As dusk settled, Air Force Dragon ships lit the battered terrain with flares and kept up a blistering rain of fire from miniguns which spew about 6,000 bullets per minute. Air observers in light spotter planes reported Communist dead stacking up in some positions during the battle. After six

More Work, Less Respect for Officers

Sheriff John Dennis in a talk to the Optimist club today at the Rustic Rock told his audience "in the last few years a change has taken place in attitudes toward law enforcement.

"People used to say "Mr." when they addressed an officer, but now it's John and Joe," he said.

"They feel that when an officer comes around he is snooping."

Sheriff Dennis was introduced by Tom Gilmore, club secretary.

"The work load of the enforcement officers in Scott County has more than doubled in the last five years, and is placed on three deputies and myself for the 33,000 persons in the county," Dennis said.

"Much of the increase," Dennis added, "was due to the many small towns in the county, who have no officers, or have but one man, and some of them draw no more than $140 per month. We are going to have to have more persons to help us enforce the laws.

"Since radar has been put into effect, our officers receive many calls per week, and since the highway patrol is kept busy tracking down violators that pass through from distant points, they can't assist our officers on many of the calls."

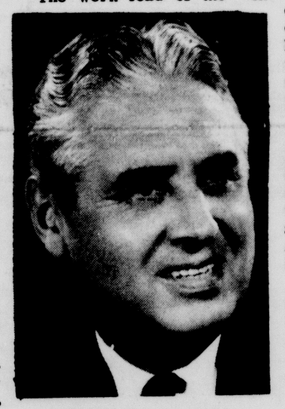

"The circuit court cases has increased until now sessions are held 15 to 20 days each month. Our magistrate court now meets two times each week, and the load at our county jail has increased at the same rate with no additional help, and not even a cook.

"There are a few bright sides to our law enforcement problems. You have an efficient city law enforcement group, and this group has taken advantage of the best training available in the country, by sending them to take courses at Rolla.

"I wish to remind you that when Interstate 57 reaches Sikeston, the increased traffic will cause an additional upsurge in law enforcement work for officers in Scott county.

President John Harper announced that the club in cooperation with the Community Action Agency would take a group of 60 boys, from both the east and west sides of Sikeston to St. Louis. The boys, who were members of the Optimist Buddy baseball teams this summer, will attend the St. Louis Cardinals - Philadelphia Phillies baseball game at Busch Memorial Stadium Wednesday night.

The club members will take the boys to the Town Plaza Shopping center, where all boys and members will board two buses at 4:30 p.m. for the round trip.

Clifford Russell Jr., 816 Wayne, was charged at 11:35 p.m. Sunday on South Main with operating a motor vehicle with no city auto license.

Lawrence Robinett, Dunn Hotel, was charged at 11:45 p.m. Saturday with public intoxication. He was arrested on North Street, police reported.

Paula K. Wren, 107 Baker Lane, reported to police Saturday that a set of wedding rings apparently were stolen from her mailbox. The mailman told her the package arrived last Wednesday, but she has not received it yet, she told police.

Willie Lane, 307 Alabama, reported to police Sunday that a red Schwinn spider bicycle with a black seat was taken from 1408 Osage St.

A blue and green plaid baby carriage was found during the weekend at Ingram and Helen and given to police.

Eagleton Will Oppose Long for Senate Seat

ST. LOUIS -- Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton today announced that he will file for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate seat now held by Sen. Edward V. Long, who has announced he will seek re-election.

Eagleton made his announcement at a press conference.

Eagleton said: "For several weeks I have been canvassing Missouri to ascertain public sentiment with respect to my becoming a candidate for the Senate.

"I have visited many areas of the state. The response I have received has been encouraging.

"My campaign will be based on a discussion of many serious and perplexing problems which face our state and nation.

"Among these problems are American foreign policy, the growing urbanization of America with the migration of people from rural to urban areas, the failure of farm income to keep pace with rising costs in other sectors of the economy.

"I hope to bring my campaign to the people so that they may hear where I stand and what I would propose if I am fortunate enough to be elected to the United States senate."

Eagleton said that he would not begin his formal campaign until later. He stated he was making his announcement so as to "clear the way" for those who might want to seek his present office as lieutenant governor and also to give him the necessary time to set up a campaign organization throughout Missouri.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

FADING U. S. LAW

The federal authorities, from the President and Attorney General on down, and including the federal courts, are handling H. Rap Brown with kid gloves. This insolent rabble-rouser, who openly threatens murder and incites to arson, is allowed to say and do almost anything he pleases.

He and his followers are permitted to shout and yell in court. Before U. S. District Judge Thomas Murphy for some strange reason reduced Brown's ball from $25,000 to $15,000, the Brown claque in the courtroom interrupted repeatedly with shouts of "Black Power!" The room should have been cleared.

Let us suppose that members of the John Birch Society or the American Nazis or the Ku Klux Klan were to attempt to take over any courtroom in this country. They would be promptly slapped down. If they set fire to dozens of blocks in a large city and began looting, they would be arrested. If they resisted arrest, they would be overpowered, and perhaps shot.

But recent mobs have been permitted to run wild ir our cities, looting and burning. True, they are large mobs -- far more numerous than could be mustered by the John Birchers or the KKK. But the United States Government, its armed forces and its courts, are either in control of this country or they aren't. Apparently, they aren't.

The U. S. Supreme Court is among those bearing the heaviest share of responsibility for the prevailing lack of law and order. President Johnson is another who has shown a great lack of force in putting down the riots. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, probably the weakest incumbent of his office in modern times, is seriously culpable.

Their attitude has carried over into the lower federal courts. Why, for example, should Rap Brown's bail have been reduced from $25,000 to $15,000? True, the offense for which Brown was arrested was carrying a rifle when under indictment. This, under normal circumstances, would not have called for bail of $25,000.

But Brown is no ordinary defendant. When arrested with the gun, he was under indictment in inciting a mob in Cambridge, Md., to burn that town. He has been inciting other mobs to loot, burn and murder.

In the face of these facts, the federal district court in New York reduces his bail! He will now embark on a nationwide speaking tour.

On that tour, we may be sure, he will again exhort his audiences to put cities to the torch, to shoot various officials, take over the government and otherwise promote anarchy and revolution.

George Mason and Thomas Jefferson believed deeply in free speech, but it is greatly to be doubted if they would tolerate such incendiary, murderous and seditious appeals as we are hearing daily from Rap Brown. There are limits to all things. Brown passed those limits long ago.

IKE'S 1961 WARNING RECALLED

On Jan. 17, 1961, President Dwight D. Eisenhower made his last speech to the nation from the White House.

In that speech he noted that as a result of World War II the United States for the first time had developed an armaments industry of vast proportions. The nation also had developed a defense establishment involving 3.5 million men and women.

"This conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry is new in the American experience," he said. ". . . We recognize the imperative need for this development. Yet we must not fail to comprehend its grave implications . . .

"In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist.

". . . Only an alert and knowledgeable citizenry can compel the proper meshing of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals, so that security and liberty may prosper together. . ."

THE significance of President Eisenhower's words escaped most observers at the time. It caused passing comment, little more.

But now the real significance is coming through clearly.

It is coming in revelation of some of the testimony given recently before the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee which has been investigating arms sales by the United States to foreign countries.

That testimony has brought out that such arms sales have increased from about 300 million dollars a year in 1961 (when President Eisenhower was speaking) to more than 1,700 million dollars last year.

It has become a big business, run by the Pentagon with a "deputy assistant secretary of defense for international logistics negotiations" serving as the nation's full-time salesman for weapons overseas.

How big this business has become is indicated in the statement by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara in defense of the program. In the 1960-70 decade, he said, it will mean 1.4 million man years of employment and more than a billion dollars in profits for United States industry. Business Week magazine as early as last December noted that the chief beneficiaries of the arms-for-sale business were such corporations as General Dynamics, Lockhead Aircraft and McDonnell of St. Louis.

Defender of the sales say that if the United States did not supply the arms the buyers would turn to Russia or other suppliers. But the fact remains that while the United States is not alone among the suppliers, none matches the volume of exports of this nation.

Henry J. Kuss Jr., the Pentagon's arms salesman, boasts that the United States leads in this race because "no other nation can touch us in over-all technological know-how, quality, price, delivery time, follow-up logistical support and credit terms."

But it is exactly these facts that have caused concern to such men as Senator Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.) who says this business "may be an even more serious threat to peace than nuclear proliferation."

The reason, he says, is that selling military hardware abroad is only the first step in a chain. "Almost invariably, a training mission is needed and the recipient country becomes dependent on the supplier for spare parts and other ordnance," he explains.

ALL of this relates to what President Eisenhower was warning about more than six years ago, for it is being carried on by the Defense Department and the State Department without checks by Congress. It is the fact that these departments, and sometimes their hirelings, make the decisions as to who will get United States arms, what kind and how many, that is causing concern in Congress.

It is an extension of the usurpation of the powers of Congress by the executive branch of Federal Government of which Senator J. William Fullbright (D-Ark.) was warning again just last week.

It results in committing the United States to situations on which Congress constitutionally is supposed to have the final say and make Congress only a rubber stamp for executive decisions on foreign affairs.

Senator Fulbright has said he has "a feeling -- only a feeling, not yet a conviction, that constitutional change is in the making" to restore to Congress what it has unwittingly surrendered. If the Senate investigations of arms sales promote that objective, they will serve a useful purpose.

More than 6,000 school busses will be inspected by the end of the month in the annual school bus safety inspection conducted by the state department of education and the Missouri highway patrol. All safety requirements of the law and the equipment safety rulles promulgated by the education department are checked.

The inspections are conducted in each county of the state in a joint cooperative effort of the state departments and city and county school officials.

Kenneth Kirchner, assistant commissioner of the state department of education and director of the committee on pupil transportation, pointed out the importance of the annual inspections. "Almost 400,000 boys and girls ride in these buses in Missouri each school day and a total of approximately 55 million miles are logged each school year," he said.

Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Patrol, said, "The State of Missouri is seriously concerned with the safety of our young people. We must do everything possible to protect them." He pointed out that after Jan. 1, 1969, when the motor vehicle inspection law becomes effective, school buses will be required to undergo an annual mechanical inspection at official stations during the Aug. or prior to operating the vehicles during the school year.

Three young women -- an English girl, an American girl, and a French girl -- were once asked what they would do if they were suddenly marooned on an island with a battalion of soldiers. "I'd kill myself," cried the English girl. The American girl said, "I'd go to the Commanding Officer and ask for protection." The French girl replied, "I understand the question, but what is the problem?"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- As the world conference on smoking and health opens today (Sept. 11) Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., a cigar smoker, plans to raise cain with the big cigaret companies and the big TV broadcasters for their refusal to label cigaret packages with nicotine content.

Magnuson, who is chairman of the senate commerce committee, has found that two cigaret companies, Stephano Brothers, and Lorillard, manufacture "Marvel" and "True" respectively, in which the nicotine content is low. However, Magnuson has also found that Reynolds and American tobacco products -- Pall Mall, Winston, Camel -- are high in tar and nicotine. At present these latter two companies enjoy a major portion of the market and don't want to risk losing it by any requirement that tar and nicotine content be printed on the cigaret package.

The National Association of Broadcasters supports the tobacco majors. Cigaret advertising constitutes a $300,000,000 chunk of radio and TV advertising. Its executives are opposed to any differentiation as between high and low nicotine cigarets.

Another potent figure bucking any labeling of nicotine and tar content is ex-governor Robert Meyner of New Jersey, who is now Czar of the tobacco industry. Bob was a good governor of New Jersey and is also good at protecting his tobacco clients, regardless of the public health. He has been adamant against any labeling of nicotine and tar content.

Sen. Magnuson, however, is in a position to introduce laws requiring this health safeguard. He plans to hold hearings and move to this end.

Note -- one interesting point sure to be raised with the airlines is why they distribute free cigarets to passengers; also, why they don't segregate smokers from non-smoking passengers as do railroads and buses.

CONGRESSIONAL ETHICS

It's been nine months since Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe-Trotter, was kicked out of congress for globe-trotting too freely on other people's credit cards. Finally the house ethics committee, under conscientious veteran Mel Price, D-Ill., has been getting down to the problem of setting up a code of ethics to prevent similar conduct by other congressmen.

Committee members didn't like it at all, however, when Rep. Ogden Reid of New York, an impatient Republican, issued a press statement declaring the American people had lost confidence in congress. His fellow Republican, Rep. Charley Halleck of Indiana, immediately jumped all over Reid at an ethics committee hearing. Halleck is sometimes called "two Cadillac Charley" because of his ability to get Cadillacs during the scarce war period.

"I just don't think it's true that the country has lost confidence in congress," Halleck exploded.

Rep. Reid, who once served as editor of the New York Herald Tribune and as U.S. Ambassador to Israel, struck to his guns.

"I think there is no question but what there has been a loss of confidence in the integrity of congress," he replied. "If you look at press accounts or what the average fellow on the street says, there has been a concern about the Adam Clayton Powell case, about Senator Dodd."

"We are concerned with those too," replied Halleck, "but where do you go from there? The people I have talked to, Ogden, don't conclude from that that we are all of that stripe. I must say, I am sorry you put that flat statement in."

"If congress doesn't act with greater dispatch than we have the last few years on this matter," insisted Reid, "I don't think that public confidence is going to be enhanced."

A BUNCH OF BUMS

Rep. Les Arends, R-Ill., sided with Halleck. "The articles we see in the paper leave the impression we are a bunch of bums, like this one by a Washington Post columnist that there is nothing but drunkenness going on up here on the hill," he said. "This is why they think we are a bunch of bums. I don't believe that people as a whole have lost their sense of fairness in criticizing the congress."

"I don't think they have, either," replied Reid, "but I do think that the remedy lies in sound action by the committee. I think the area where I would lean the hardest would be on the disclosure of sources of income. I think the public is entitled to know the basic area of sources of income."

Rep. Watkins Abbitt, D-Va. -- "Do you think that this release (Reid's news statement), which will undoubtedly get widespread coverage, will add to the growing concern of the people?"

Reid -- "I think that the only thing that will add to the concern, basically, is if the congress does not take some reasonable action -- hopefully this year. I am just saying that many Americans have some doubts. I think that the point is for us to take some action and remove any concern that may exist."

Chairman Mel Price -- "We all agree with you on that. We want to remove any concern."

Halleck -- "We will not remove all of it, not in the minds of some of the columnists."

H.L. Hunt Says

RUSSIAN SUPPORT FOR NORTH VIETNAM

There has been much speculation recently about the growing possibilities of a 'detente' between the United States and the Soviet Union. Optimists in this matter point to the cordiality of the recent Johnson-Kosygin meeting, the restraint exercised by the Soviet Union in the mideast crisis, and a generally friendly attitude on the part of Communist leaders.

More knowledgeable observers, however, point out that in each of these instances, the Soviet had more to gain than to lose by avoiding a hostile attitude. But when Russia can avoid outward trouble with the U.S. and at the same time undermine our country's strength, it wastes no time in doing so.

A case in point is the rapid growth of Russian arms shipments to North Vietnam, for use against American soldiers. In February, Communist party boss Leonard Brezhnev threatened to appreciably increase Soviet aid to North Vietnam, and he has done so. Since February, arms shipments from Moscow to Hanoi have tripled.

Among the weapons being sent are ground-to-ground rockets with ranges from six to thirty miles and 140mm and 200mm rockets and launchers. Estimates are that in a three-month period, these weapons were responsible for a thousand American deaths and injuries.

It should be obvious to this country's leaders that there is a serious discrepance between outward protestations by the Soviet leaders of friendliness towards the United States and a desire to improve relations, and the actions of the Communists in aiding our enemy in the Vietnamese war.

Until Russian weapons are no longer killing American servicemen, Russian avowals of friendship must have a very hollow ring. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

THE FUTURE WITH "WALTER"

Europe's Labor Leaders Believe Reuther Will Demand Seats On Corporate Boards Of Directors For U.S. Union Chiefs.

(Where is Walter Reuther running? The Ford strike -- obviously and methodically planned, as insiders knew for more than a year -- merely is a skirmish in the 60-year-old auto chief's final conflict with American industry. What does Reuther really want on this front?

For two weeks I have been talking with the men who actually know him best. They are the Laborite Prime Ministers and powerful Social Democratic union leaders of Britain, Scandinavia and Western Europe. With them the embattled Detroiter talks more frequently, and frankly than with others even in his own massive union. With them he talks of building a world community and global unionism. With them he has sat in discussions, sometimes lasting two and three days, of almost continuous conversation. So they know him best.

They understand and sympathize with Reuther's assault on management, his assuming the right to demand a voice in this management, his ever piercing attacks on the salaries paid corporation executives and dividends distributed to stockholders.

My final conversation in Europe led me to the leader of the powerful German labor movement. In this concluding dispatch from the continent I believe that Reuther's aims on the exploding labor-management front are fully reflected in the words of the President of the German unions -- the movement with which Reuther is closest.)

Dusseldorf, Germany: -- Some miles down the road from the "valley" in which they dug up the bones of the first Neanderthal man, lives a chap who is the synthesis of contemporary civilization. After two hours with this urbane and eloquent fellow over coffee with "shlag" and Cointreau on his veranda, I believe I read him right when I report he believes that Walter Reuther and other auto union chiefs should sit on the board of directors of Ford and General Motors. This would be the Germany way.

It is the way of "Co-determination" and "Works Councils" which virtually every German employer must deal with and heed in virtually all shops, factories and enterprises.

Ours was a serious, albeit bantering, conversation worth reporting since my host was Ludwig Rosenberg, President of the Deutscher Gewerkschaftsbund (DGB), the German Trade Union Federation For the Area of the Federal Republic and Berlin.

Not only is Herr Rosenberg leader of 7 million workers, but he is the labor movement's representative on the board of directors of the giant Thyssen steel works. His colleague, Otto Brenner, an intimate of Walter Reuther, represents labor on the boards of Krupp and Volkswagen. Brenner, who is learning from Reuther -- as Reuther is learning about co-determination from Brenner -- is head of the world's largest union, the 2-million-member German Metal Workers Organization.

It has been the law since May, 1951, that the labor movement has the right to sit on the board of some companies. The unions won that right after threatening a massive national strike. The then comparatively new chancellor, Conrad Adenauer, interceded in their behalf and they got the law putting them on the boards of all coal mining, steelmaking and iron mongering corporations.

This they called co-determination. In 1956 the law was amended and finally the Works Council law gave labor the right to sit on all public (stock) companies employing more than 1,000 persons. All this, without buying a single share.

At the moment the German Labor Movement (DGB) can appoint one third of the board of directors of all firms falling into this category. (They don't call them boards of directors, but boards of shareholders.) The unions also have the right to name one of their people to the board of management which controls the actual direction of the corporation.

The union leaders are paid for their work on the board of directors -- but have imposed on themselves an unwritten law which limits them to two boards each. Half their income from this participation is given to an educational fund.

And the labor leaders don't just sit and listen. They go over the company books -- "otherwise how could we know how much to seek in wage increases or whether to hold the line," says Mr. Rosenberg.

The union chiefs also vote on capital investment, declaration of dividends, pace of production, changes of models, marketing techniques, selection of products to be manufactured, utilization and expansion of productive capacity and even the increase in prices.

It might interest Walter Reuther that his good friend Otto Brenner, militantly left of center here on foreign policy, once voted for such a price increase on autos. This came when the Volkswagen corporation, on whose board he sits, needed money. On the theory that you can't milk a dead cow, Brenner joined his capitalist co-directors in voting for a price increase on "the people's car."

The labor men also vote on "the financial situation, the size of stocks, the amount of credits, running expenses, profit and loss development and economic and production risks."

"We are not all that tough," said Rosenberg in reaction to my readiness to duel with him. "Once one corporation on which I sit faced a situation in which we were faced by the union's demand for more money, which we did not have, and the company needed to issue a new batch of shares for capital investment. So we voted to reject the wage demands and instead to vote dividends on our outstanding stock so we could sell to the public the new shares as a good investment. I later spent four hours at a meeting of over 3,000 union members explaining."

I observed that in the U.S. he might not have gotten out of the hall. But I added, management is management and labor should not impinge on it. His voice rose in competition with an overhead jet.

"Why should we not be on the board of management," asked Rosenberg, "If Krupp went bankrupt, many cities would suffer, big banks would falter. Tens of thousands of workers would be jobless. Hundreds of dependent companies would suffer or go down. We are all involved. This affects the entire nation.

"We are good managers. We run the fourth largest bank in Germany, Bank Fur Gemeinwirtschaft, with assets of $1.25 billion. We operate the biggest construction company in our country. So we feel that we can manage as well as management. Just because it is someone else's money is no reason for their having a sole voice in the policies of massive corporations such as Thyssen here or Bethlehem in your country."

Rosenberg chuckled and observed it might come to that in the U.S. And why not? It's better than socialization.

And so I left to drive back to Bonn, past the Neanderthal man's original happy hunting grounds. Life was so simple then.

Horlen Twists Tigers Tail With No Hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joel Horlen twisted the Tigers' tail and the Chicago White Sox never let go of the poor beast.

Horlen capped a weekend of flambuoyance for Chicago and Detroit by pitching a no-hitter and beating the Tigers 6-0 in the first game of a Sunday double-header. The White Sox completed the sweep with three pitchers sharing the five-hit 4-0 nightcap victory.

The two victories moved Chicago into a third place tie with the Tigers, who only 24 hours earlier held on to a piece of the American League lead by rallying for seven runs in the ninth inning and a 7-3 victory over the Sox. The late-inning heroics was tough to top but Horlen did.

The quietly efficient Minnesota Twins, meanwhile, remained in first place with a 4-2 victory over Baltimore, and Boston clung to second place by beating New York 9-1. The Red Sox are one-half game behind Minnesota and Chicago and Detroit both stand 1½ games off the pace.

In other American League games Sunday, Washington rallied for three ninth inning runs and a 3-2 victory over California and Cleveland split a double-header with Kansas City, winning 1-0 before losing 5-2.

"I knew the importance of this game," said Horlen after his masterpiece. "If we lose this one, we're really down mentally. Especially after yesterday. We were the deadest I've seen us all year."

So the 30-year-old right-hander methodically went about reviving the corpse. He allowed only two base runners, one on an error, the other on a hit batsman.

The White Sox gave him a quick five-run edge in the first inning with Wayne Causey's two-run triple the key blow. It was Causey who threw out Jerry Lumpe in the ninth inning for Horlen's closest call.

Lumpe lashed the ball through the box and Causey went behind second base to throw him out. "I just knew I had to get the ball," Causey said later. "I thought after that maybe I should have straightened before throwing off balance. I thought the ball got there just as his foot was going down on the base."

Now, with Horlen's no-hitter to think about instead of Saturday's ninth inning nightmare, the Sox went about completing the sweep. Francisco Carlos, the 26-year-old rookie, won it with Hoyt Wilhelm and Bobby Locker finished up.

Singles by Don Buford and rookie Bill Voss set up a two-run first inning with one run scoring on a wild-pitch third strike and the other on Pete Ward's sacrifice fly.

Chicago added two more in the eighth on run-scoring singles by Charlie Bradford and Ward.

Dave Boswell pitched a five-hitter for the Twins, who scored the tie-breaking run against Baltimore on a seventh inning error by the usually sure-handed Brooks Robinson.

Zoilo Versalles, who had opened the inning with a double, was on third with two out when Robinson booted Harmon Killebrew's ground ball. Rich Reese's pinch double, following a single by Bob Allison and an error by Luis Aparicio, drive in another run in the eighth.

Hot-hitting Tony Oliva drove in Minnesota's first two runs and the Orioles bunched three of their hits for both their runs off Boswell, 13-10, in the fourth.

Gary Bell pitched a four-hitter and Boston bombed the Yankees with 13 hits to keep pace with the Twins.

George Scott and Mike Andrews each slugged a pair of doubles, Ken Harrelson had a home run and a single and Mike Ryan a bases-loaded triple to lead the Boston attack.

The defeat officially eliminated the Yankees from pennant contention.

Broncos Flattened

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Anybody want a slightly used slipper? Cheap? The one the Denver Broncos have been wearing for the last month suddenly doesn't fit so well any more.

The Cinderella story the Broncos, doormats of the American Football League last season, had been re-enacting for the last four weeks came to an unscheduled end Sunday as Denver was decimated by the Oakland Raiders 51-0.

The Broncos lost their first exhibition game, but then went on to slash through four foes, including National Football League opponents Detroit and Minnesota as well as these very same Raiders. In their regular season opener against Boston last week, the Broncos won again.

What happened between last week and this remains a question for Coach Lou Saban to struggle with in the coming days.

"They just kicked the stuffing out of us," Saban said. "What else can you say?"

In another AFL game Sunday, Buffalo beat New York 20-17 and, in an NFL exhibition, Cleveland pounded Minnesota 42-14.

On Saturday, Kansas City beat Houston 25-20 and San Diego took Boston 28-14 in regular season AFL games.

In NFL exhibitions Saturday, New Orleans took Atlanta 27-14, Baltimore crushed Dallas 33-7, Chicago shut out Philadelphia 14-0, Green Bay beat New York 31-14, Washington shaded Pittsburgh 16-10, and Los Angeles downed San Francisco 34-7.

The destruction of the Broncos was as complete as it was surprising. Making only two first downs, the club was held scoreless for the first time in its 77-game history and suffered its most lopsided defeat.

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica directed the Raiders to five touchdowns and George Blanda guided them to another and a field goal. Warren Powers added yet another with a 36-yard runback of a pass interception.

Buffalo pounded the Jets for a 20-point last quarter, finally winning on Mike Mercer's 43-yard field goal with four seconds left in the game. Jack Kemp threw two scoring passes to Art Powell, while the Jets had taken an early lead on passes from Joe Namath to Don Maynard.

Leroy Kelly scored the first three Cleveland touchdowns on short rushes and a 30-yard pass from Frank Ryan as the Browns rolled up a 28-0 halftime lead. Rookie Carl Ward's 85-yard touchdown return of the second-half kickoff made it 35-0 before the Vikings could finally score.

Pirates Nudge Birds, 8-7

Briles Puts Six-Game Streak On Line Against Phillies Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cardinals return to St. Louis tonight, happy to be free of the Pittsburgh Pirates who made it four out of the last five, defeating the Redbirds, 8-7, Sunday at Forbes Field.

The Pirates came from behind with four runs in the eighth to overtake St. Louis. Manny Mota's pinch single drove in the first run and Maury Wills tripled to drive in two and scored the winning run on Manny Jimenez's pinch single.

Pittsburgh got to six Cardinal pitchers for 15 hits while St. Louis collected 12 off of six Pirates hurlers.

Lou Brock, Dal Maxvill and Dave Ricketts each had two hits and Brock and Maxvill each drove in two runs.

Joe Hoerner was the loser in relief.

Pizarro was the winner in relief.

The Cards will play Philadelphia in Busch Memorial Stadium tonight with Nelson Briles on the mound for St. Louis and Chris Short for the Phillies. Briles has won six straight.

The string didn't run out on Gaylord Perry. He pulled it himself.

Perry, San Francisco's strong-armed right-hander, beat the Chicago Cubs 2-1 Sunday with a three-hitter. But his string of successive scoreless innings was broken at 40 . . . just 6 1-3 innings short of Carl Hubbell's National League record.

"I'm sorry it had to happen, but I'm glad I have no one to blame but myself," said Perry, whose two-base throwing error in the seventh inning set up the Cubs' run.

The Giants' eighth victory in nine games lifted them into second place, 10½ games behind St. Louis' runaway leaders, who were beaten by Pittsburgh 8-7, and one-half game ahead of the Cincinnati Reds, who trimmed the New York Mets 5-2.

Philadelphia slammed Atlanta 10-5 and Los Angeles split a doubleheader with Houston, winning 4-1 before bowing 1-0 in 11 innings, in other NL action.

Perry, whose previous three starts had produced two shutout victories and a 16-inning scoreless stint without a decision, breezed past the Cubs until the seventh, when Ron Santo drew a leadoff walk.

The Giants pitcher then fielded Ernie Banks's tap to the mound and went to second for a force play . . . only to have his throw sail into center field as Santo sped to third. Santo then scored as Bob Raudman grounded into a double play.

The error cost Perry a shot at the 34-year-old record set by Hubbell, the former Giants ace who now directs the club's farm system. But the slender fireballer can take solace in a late spurt that has boosted his season mark to 13-15 while lowering his ERA to 2.75.

Maury Wills lashed a two-run triple in the eighth inning and scored on an infield out, capping a four-run uprising that carried the Pirates past St. Louis.

Lee May cracked a two-run homer and winning pitcher Jim Maloney's RBI single climaxed a decisive two-run burst in the fifth inning, leading the Reds' attack at New York.

Tony Gonzalez collected three hit and Cookie Rojas slugged the first grand slam homer of his career as the Phillies outscored Atlanta to give Jim Bunning his 17th victory.

Jim Wynn earned Houston a split at Los Angeles and took over the league home run lead by slamming his 36th of the year in the 11th inning of th nightcap. Bo Belinsky, who pitched nine brilliant innings, and winner Dave Eilers limited the Dodgers to three hits.

The Dodgers struck for four runs in the seventh inning of the opener to overcome a 1-0 Houston lead and give rookie Bill Singer his 11th victory in 17 decisions.

Razorbacks Picked For Second In Southwest

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. -- All of this concern about Arkansas' offense in 1967 is for real. The statistics tell the story -- where fans and writers alike have turned a deaf ear to the warnings of Frank Broyles. The Razorback head coach shudders at the thought of it, but he faces a situation strangely similar to the fall of 1963 when his Porkers were picked to win the title (despite his caution) and wound up in fourth place.

TCU's 34-year-old poll of SWC writers picked Arkansas to finish second in the league this year. More than anything else it is a compliment to the coaching abilities of Broyles and his staff. The top football writers currently making their annual conference tour, however, are likely to come up with a different appraisal. What they'll see at Arkansas is an almost complete changes in personnel on a offensive unit that finished 5th in that department last year.

Not only has the 1966 Porker offensive line been riddled (six of the seven starters need to be replaced), but Arkansas will have the least experience in its offensive backfield of any team in the Southwest Conference.

Here's the evidence -- first by rushing. The top five ball carriers at each school for 1966 are listed, with returning players in capital letters. (Yardage gained in parentheses)

ARKANSAS -- DAVID DICKEY (447), Bruce Maxwell (376), Harry Jones (342), Eddie Woodlee (213) and Jon Brittenum (168). Net yardage of 1,546 for 1966, with only 447 yards returning in 1967.

BAYLOR--Richard Defee (332), PINKY PALMER (299), CHARLES WILSON (211), JOHN WESTBROOK (99), and BILLY HAYES (64). Net yardage of 1,005 for 1966, with 673 yards returning in 1967.

RICE--ROBBY SHELTON (607), L. B. BENNINGFIELD (597) LESTER LEHMAN (369), Glen Hine (95) and Chuck Latourette (77). Net yardage of 1,745 for 1966, with 1,573 returning in 1967.

SMU -- Mac White (606), MIKE RICHARDSON (357), Larry Jernigan (299), MIKE LIVINGSTON (269) and JIM HAGLE (297). Net yardage of 1,738 for 1966, with 833 yards returning for 1967.

TEXAS -- CHRIS GILBERT (1,080), BILL BRADLEY (335), LINUS BAER (211), Jim Helms (206) and Gregg Lott (81). Net yardage of 1,913 in 1966, with 1,707 returning in 1967.

TEXAS A&M -- WENDELL HOUSLEY (548), BILL SALLEE (231), BOB LONG (76), Bonnie Lindsey (65) and DAN SCHNEIDER (18). Net yardage of 938 in 1966, with 873 returning in 1967.

T C U -- ROSS MONTGOMERY (467), KENNY POST (257), NORMAN BULAICH (246), STEVE LANDON (126) and P. D. SHABAY (102). Net yardage of 1,198 in 1966, with 1,198 returning in 1967.

TEXAS TECH -- MIKE LEINERT (495), JOHN SCOVELL (280), ROGER FREEMAN (220), KENNY BAKER (208) and Jerry Lovelace (171). Net yardage of 1,374 in 1966, with 1,203 returning in 1967.

Add to these figures the yardage gained by the top two passers for each team in 1966 and yardage returning in 1967 -- and the Porkers still wind up last. The Razorbacks have 47 yards passing returning from 1966 (Gordon Norwood). Even if you include Ronny South, the starter, the Hogs wind up with only 240 yards passing from the 1965 season.

The full picture of offensive potential is revealed in the total yardage returning from these top players of 1966 (top five ball carriers and the top two passers). Here's the breakdown.

Team	1966 Figures Rush-Pass-Total			Returning in 1967
Rice	1745	1187	2932	2760

Romney's Reputation as Mind Changer Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gale W. McGee, Wyoming Democrat, says Michigan's Gov. George Romney m7st have "the cleanest mind in America, he changes it so often." But it's when Romney himself talked of "brainwashing" that he got into trouble.

Here are some samples of how Romney says one thing at one time and something else at another, going back to 1965.

On Feb. 8 of that year he backed President Johnson's decision to launch retaliatory air strikes against North Vietnam. And a month later Romney was saying the United States should take a stronger stand.

But by Dec. 10, 1965, asked if American air strikes should be stepped up, he said this country should be cautious, "weighing every step we take." And by last May he was against heavier bombing because that would cause more problems.

On Nov. 16,1965 he said he didn't expect the war to end at the bargaining table "but only when the Viet Cong decide they'd rather till their farms than risk their lives." He had already said a negotiated settlement would be a mistake.

By May 9, 1967 he was saying the United States should encourage the South Vietnamese to negotiate with the Viet Cong. And last Aug. 16 he said anyone who thought North Vietnam could be brought to the bargaining table by just bombing wasn't thinking soundly.

In November, 1965 Romney went to Saigon with some other governors, conferred with American officials there, and came away saying "we are doing the morally right thing." The officials couldn't have given him a sunny picture because he said things might get worse before they got better.

But on April 5, 1966 he was already questioning whether the United States had a valid reason to fight the war, on July 5 said he wasn't sure the time and place were right for a showdown, and on March 5, 1967 Romney said he was going to have to determine whether outside aggression or civil war sparked the conflict before he could pass on the "moral right" of the United States to fight in Vietnam.

And by May 24, 1967 he was saying "the biggest mistake we have made in the Vietnamese war is in getting involved."

Twice, in 1965 after a White House briefing by Johnson and other top officials for him and other governors, and in 1966 at a governors' conference, Romney generally endorsed Johnson's policy. But at the same conference he said he could not give a blanket endorsement to administration policy. On Nov. 16, 1965 the only specific point of disagreement he raised about Johnson's Vietnamese policy was in continuing aid to countries whose ships carried supplies to North Vietnam.

But later he said Johnson didn't have an "effective policy," that Johnson had made a mistake in getting involved, and called his policy "clumsy, ill-timed and poorly coordinated."

Starting as far back as Nov. 25, 1965 he was saying there was need for more information about the war and that Johnson was misleading the people by covering up mistakes. He has made repeated statements like that.

Then last week, referring to his 1965 visit to Saigon when he said this country had a "moral right" to be in Vietnam, he said he had been "brainwashed" and now thinks we had no need to get involved.

This was too much for the Detroit News, which had supported his three successful bids for the Michigan governorship. It suggested he abandon any idea he might have about the presidency, saying he lacked the ability to achieve stability in presidential politics. Last July the newspaper said Romney must be abysmally ignorant of what the realities are in Vietnam.

This wasn't all. Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, said of the "brainwashing" complaint: Romney "cannot recognize the truth when he sees it . . . I think he is blind to the truth."

The governors who went to Saigon with him then disputed his "brainwashing" charge. Romney backed away from "brainwashing" and told reporters he didn't mean the "Russian-type brainwashing,' but the "same thing you mean when you write about the credibility gap, snow jobs, and manipulation of the news."

Festival Visitors Taste Steak Made of Soybeans

PORTAGEVILLE -- Salsbury steak made of soybeans was on display at the New Madrid County library during the Soybean Festival.

Visitors were amazed when they tasted turkey, corn beef, soy - milk, ham, bacon, salsbury steak and gravy, wieners, and chicken, all made from processed soybeans.

According to Ken Stephanske of Madison, Tenn., Dr. Robert Boyer of St. Louis spent seven years developing the first imitation meat product from soybeans, which was chicken, produced in 1953. Dr. Boyer also produced imitation ham, which took 10 years, wieners and salsbury steak, which took three years.

Imitation soybean products can be used in different recipes, such as desserts, baking, frying, salads, sauces, dressings, beverages, casseroles, sandwiches and pastries.

Lions Improving East Prairie Baseball Field

EAST PRAIRIE -- The East Prairie Lions Club has begun a program of improvements at the Little League baseball field in H. A. Jones Memorial Park, it has been announced.

Included are: permanent chain link fencing, permanent bleachers, new improved lighting system, dugouts, a building located within the fenced area for equipment storage, concession stand and office for a full-time paid summer supervisor, it has been reported.

Planning was initiated at the Lions Club board meeting last week called by Lions president, Bill McKinley. In addition to Lion board members, Arlen Powell, manager of the Little League games this summer, was also present.

The improvements and additions were brought before the club Tuesday night, and the club voted to undertake the project, which is a Community Betterment project.

The following committees were appointed Tuesday night; finance, L. D. Davis, James T. Bruce Jr., Van Marshall and Dale Boone.

Mr. Boone was also made chairman of the lighting committee prior to the meeting, and has already begun making inquiries as to the cost of the planned lighting system.

As fencing is to be the first improvement undertaken, Mr. McKinley appointed Carey Johnson as chairman of the fencing project, with the understanding he could draft committee members from the Lions club roster at later dates.

Initial action is for the finance committee to make contacts within the next 30 days to determine how much can be raised through donations, with the balance being obtained by the Lions club through a loan.

The total cost of an estimated $8-$10,000 cannot be raised through donations it was reported, and the Lions club while paying off the balance will not be able to pay the annual cost of operating the Little League, members added.

This cost, which has been running about $1,200 per year, will be met through the annual Little League drive for donations.

However, after the Lions club has paid off the loan for the improvements they hope to be able to assume full sponsorship of the Little League, which will include an organizational arrangement prescribed by Little League regulations.

Shivery September

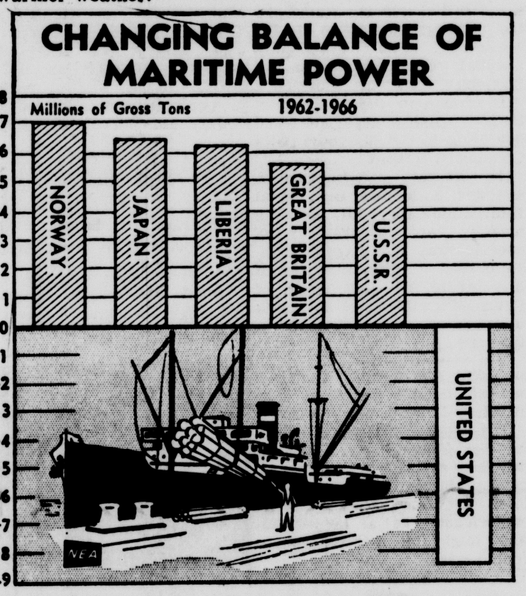

Maps show Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperature, precipitation through September 30.

A broad coastal belt from New England to Texas and up into the southern plains should see heavier than normal precipitation. It will be drier to the north and west.

Temperatures are expected to be below normal for most of the country from the Continental Divide to the Appalachians. The mountain and far west regions can look for warmer weather.

While other leading merchant fleets have been adding tonnage in recent years, the American total has decreased. The five leading nations account for 64.3 per cent of the 47 million gross tons added to world merchant fleets from 1962 to 1966.

FINDING THE WAY

Endure Situations? Yes! But Accept Them? No!

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What's an acceptable way of life? The ancient prophet Isaiah said that, among other things, he had been sent to "proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord." That meant justice for mankind, compassion for the suffering, liberty for the imprisoned and a new sense of godliness. This was to be proclaimed!

Our problem is that so much that we know to be wrong is still accepted. It isn't that we believe the situation to be right. We can't justify slums, lack of educational facilities, slaughter on the highway, our own personal problems of a bad temper or slovenliness. It's just that we decide that we can't do anything about these things and so, for us, they become acceptable.

Take the ugly issue of war. These have been weeks which have surrounded us with the possibility of increasing horror. We are all willing to say that war is wrong. Yet we live in a time of war psychosis when we accept war.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., asks for all-out war and too many of us applaud. To make war acceptable is to insist that the language of violence and military power are the only forms of language that can be understood. If you believe that, then diplomatic efforts such as United Nations, as well as every other form of international discussion, are cynical shams. Even those who wage war ought to insist that war is wrong. This isn't a matter of being a "hawk" or a "dove." It's just recognizing tragedy. War is the tragedy of a failure; it ought not to be baptised as "the acceptable year of the Lord."

Then there is the problem of pollution. I'm astonished at the numbers of good citizens who assume that pollution is the natural by-product of civilization and therefore there's nothing that can be done about it.

It is only because some dedicated heroes of the past decided to do something about slavery or child labor or polio or any number of such disasters that men were jolted from the mind-set of accepting the tragedy.

Marcel Quoist, the interesting French priest who jogs our consciences, writes, "Would you dare to say: 'I didn't beat my wife this week; I didn't put poison in her food . . . therefore I love her?' Then don't say, 'I did nothing to hurt my neighbor this week . . . therefore I love him. I've fulfilled the law.'

"The Lord has commanded us not only not to do evil to our neighbor (the pagans do as much) but to love our neighbors as ourselves . . .

"If you are more gifted, if you are more resourceful or virtuous than your neighbor, then you ought to help him in every possible way to become capable of helping himself. There is no end to loving others."

We may have "to put up" with all too many tragedies in these days. But to accept them is intolerable.

Clarkton Tour Set for Tuesday

CLARKTON - A tour will be made of the Clarkton research field Tuesday at 1 p.m. according to Joe Scott, field crops specialist at the Delta Center in Portageville.

The Clarkton field is where the University of Missouri conducts soils and crops research on sandy soil. This soil is heavily infested with root-knot nematode and Fusarium Wilt that is found in most of the sandy soils of the Bootheel.

Farmers, who have sandy soil on their farms, will be able to observe the performance of cotton and soybean varieties and how they compare on this type of soil.

Lime and fertilizer treatments can be observed and compared with and without irrigation.

Leaf disease studies on cotton and sugar beets are also included in the research conducted on this field. Anyone interested in crop production on sandy soil is invited to tour the field on Tuesday afternoon said Scott.

Registered under Severus (the Roman emperor) was the name of a slave who not only endured martyrdom, but in a sentence defined the Faith. Her name was Felicitas; she was a Carthaginian; she lay in prison; there she bore a child.

In her pain she screamed. The jailers asked her how, if she shrieked at that, she expected to endure death by the beasts. She said, "Now I suffer what I suffer; then Another in me will suffer for me as I suffer for him."

In that, Felicitas took her place forever among the great African doctors of the Universal Church.

Nap in Widow's Room Brings Man to Grief

Dear Ann Landers: For many years I tried to persuade my wife to come to Europe with me. She felt she could not keep up with the pace of a guided tour and since that was the only way I would go, I decided to make the trip alone.

I was gone 21 days and had a wonderful time. There were several couples on the tour who were my age (past 60) and many interesting widows. One widow in particular was extremely pleasant and we often sat together on the planes and buses and enjoyed one another's company.

A few days before we were to leave for home she telephoned my room (this was in Paris) and said she was having trouble closing her suitcase. She asked if I would help. I said "yes" and went to her room. After I closed the suitcase, we visited a few minutes. She remarked that it had been an exhausting day and she was sleepy and wanted to take a nap. I said I was sleepy, too. She suggested I flop down on the other twin bed for awhile and I did.

We both dozed for about 40 minutes and then I left.

When I told my wife about this harmless little incident, she flew into a rage. She insisted that I had committed adultery, that no decdent woman would allow a man to sleep in her room and that no respectable man would have done such a thing.

I did not do anything wrong and my conscience is clear. My wife has been very formal ever since and I am talked out. Please give me your opinion on whether or not I am guilty of adultery. --- CONDEMNED

Dear Condemned: If all you did was take a nap in the widow's room you are not guilty of adultery. But you used very poor judgment, Dad.

The next time you are hit with a sudden attack of drowsiness, don't lie down in a widow's hotel room. Dash some cold water on your face and drag yourself to your own quarters where you belong.

Dear Ann Landers: Others have aired their pet peeves in your column. May I? When the phone rings I always drop everything and answer it as soon as possible. Sometimes I am unable to get to the phone until the fourth or fifth ring. If the caller has hung up I get terribly upset wondering if I missed something important.

It is exasperating when one runs from the attic or the basement or the garden and then picks up the receiver and hears a dial tone.

Please tell your readers about the information which is printed in the front pages of the telephone director. It says the phone will ring 10 times in the space of one minute. I believe as a matter of ordinary courtesy a caller ought to give a person 60 seconds to get to the phone. Will you kindly pass the word? --- NOBODY THERE

Dear N.T.: Here's your letter, and with it my pledge that in the future I will give the other party 10 rings before I hang up. I confess I didn't realize 10 rings was equivalent to 60 seconds. Thanks for telling me -- and millions of others.

New Shows Take TV Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — New programs and special programs were in oversupply in a busy weekend of television network broadcasting. Viewers, even if they only wanted to sample new wares, needed fortitude, comfortable chairs and, above all, strong eyes.

Seven new programs had their premiers and two of them, ABC's "Judd for the Defense," on Friday, and NBC's "High Chapparral," on Sunday, seemed to be a cut above the season's current average.

It was undoubtedly merely coincidence, but three programs were marathons for the audience. ABC's "Africa" occupied four solid Sunday night hours, while "High Chaparral" occupied two. The live "Miss America Pageant" on NBC Saturday was, as usual, two hours long.

"Africa," certainly one of the most costly, ambitious programs undertaken by a network news department was a cram course on the land, fauna and politics of that continent. It handled the unwieldy subject by chapters— a half hour on animals; 15 minutes on anthropology and then concentrated on Nigeria alone for a while.

But it was just too much and too long. It is something that the network will be bragging about, but from the viewers standpoint it would have been better broken up into a series of four one-hour programs shown on consecutive nights.

"Miss America" this time out seemed to have prettier and more talented girls than usual and the entertainment portion of the show, sometimes painfully amateurish, had more professional polish than in other seasons.

"Off to See the Wizard" an ABC children's show along the lines of NBC's Walt Disney hour, had the misfortune of starting with a rerun of "Clarence the Cross-Eyed Lion," a two-year-old movie. The film was adapted with most of the same cast into CBS's "Daktari" series, thus it was like seeing a new episode of an old series.

ABC's "Hondo" and "The Guns of Will Sonnett," also on Friday, were routine westerns— even the dialogue was familiar. "High Chaparral" will undoubtedly benefit from the structure and careful scripting of the series. Produced by the man who created "Bonanza," this new western centered on two mature brothers, one substantial, the other carefree.

The opening program, "Judd for the Defense," had a crazy, mixed-up script but in spite of these problems Carl Betz turned in a convincing and interesting performance as a lawyer in what might be a good courtroom series.

If You Were the Judge

Father Can Collect From Abortionist

By Jack Strauss, LL.B

Mrs. Jones went to town and found herself an abortionist when she discovered that birth control could not be made retroactive. A month later, Mr. Jones discovered his near brush with fatherhood, and, becoming outraged at his lost opportunity, he sued the abortionist for depriving him of becoming a father.

"He can't sue me," protested the abortionist in court. "If he's got a complaint, he can take it up with his wife but not with me. She's the one who hired me and she consented to the operation."

"What my wife did has nothing to do with me," retorted Mr. Jones. "By performing the abortion, he uprooted my family tree. And, he did it without my permission. After all, I was the one who was going to be the father and not her."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant damages to the disappointed father?

This is how the judge ruled: Mr. Jones collected. The judge held that a husband has a legally protected interest in an unborn child that is separate and apart from his wife's interest in the child. That, therefore, a wife's consent to an abortion does not bar her husband's claim for a direct invasion of his legally protected interests.

Nurses Hold Luncheon

The Student Practical Nurses class held a luncheon Aug. 11 as it was time for the group from Kennett, to return for their clinical education in the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital.

The class finished their preclinical education Aug. 11.

The Sikeston group was divided into two groups. One group had their clinical experience at the Shuffits Nursing Home and the other group worked in the Missouri Delta Community hospital. The two groups of Sikeston students formed a unit of one to finish most of their clinical experience and education in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The students and instructors attended a lecture on mental retardation Aug. 31. At the meeting here in Sikeston, the speaker was Dr. Harold Robb, Jefferson City, associate director of Sikeston Area of Retarded Children and associate director of mental division of the state.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

Thou hast said, "seek ye my face." My heart says to thee, "Thy face, Lord, do I seek." (Psalm 27:8, RSV)

PRAYER: Like Thy servants in the past O Lord, who trusted and were blessed by Thy grace, we ask that we may plainly feel today Thy protection. Teach us to be faithful to Thee and to persist in our trust in Thy divine power. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

The Rev. T. A. McDonough, pastor of the First Assembly of God church, 310 South Kingshighway, and Mrs. McDonough attended the 32nd biennial international business convention of the Assemblies of God Aug. 24-29 at the Long Beach Arena, in Long Beach, Calif.

Guards to Become Engineer Unit

CHARLESTON -- Charleston National Guard company probably will have to switch branches -- from infantry to engineer -- under a reorganization of the National Guard ordered by Washington.

The change will affect all infantry units in Southeast Missouri, and would become effective Jan. 1. The Pentagon turned down a request from the Midwestern Governors Conference for a delay in implementing the Guard reorganization.

Lt. Col. O. T. Dalton Jr. of Charleston, commander of the 1st Battalion, 140th infantry, with headquarters in Cape Girardeau, said his unit and the 2nd Battalion, headquartered in Poplar Bluff and commanded by Lt. Col. Harold LaBrot of Gideon, would be hard hit by the reorganization.

"Missouri will lose about 500 guard slots under the reorganization," Colonel Dalton said, "and Southeast Missouri's two battalions will lose about half the total figure. Instead of two infantry battalions in Southeast Missouri, there will be one full-strength engineer battalion," he said.

Major General Russell Boyt, who heads the 35th Division Command, with units in Missouri and Kansas, said there will be only one infantry battalion left in Missouri, and it will be assigned to the Special Ready Force (SRF). SRF units must be ready for call-up within seven days, according to Colonel Dalton.

Charleston's Company C is a unit of Colonel Dalton's battalion. "It appears likely," Dalton said, "that we will have to split our companies between two towns. For example," he said, "we must have two platoons of a company in one community, and two other platoons in a second town."

According to General Boyt, the new plan cuts down the number of units and command positions -- though the total Guard strength in Missouri would drop only 500 men. This is accomplished, he said by bringing more units to full strength according to the Table of Organization and Equipment of the Regular Army. By reducing the number of command positions, the re-organization drastically cuts the number of slots for officers.

This command situation, the two-star general pointed out, may fit well in the general plan when National Guard units are activated for federal missions, but for use in domestic situations within Missouri it could be more difficult. Activation of units that are split between communities is a problem, and with the new plan there might be as many as 40 men without a commissioned officer directly over them.

General Boyt also said that this is a precarious time for reorganization of the National Guard -- especially in cutting the strength. Recent activation of units to handle civil disturbances raises the question of whether current troop lists are even sufficient to handle civil disturbances should they break out in more than one area of a state. He indicated a deeper study might be valuable before the re-organization is carried out.

Apparently Gen. Boyt's ideas coincide with those of other Guard officers and several governors. Last week those attending the Midwest Governors' Conference at the Lake of the Ozarks, including Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, asked for a delay in the re-organization. They based their request on a need for further study of troop strengths and that the re-organization operation would interfere with intensive riot control training ordered by Washington.

The Pentagon rejected the request in a telegram to the governors last Wednesday. Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor said the Defense Department hopes to start the reorganization by Nov. 1 and complete it by May 1963.

Resor's telegram said it is "essential that our reorganization be completed by next May in order that all units will be in their new configuration prior to summer field training and also be ready to respond to any contingency, either federal or state."

Storm Nears Haiti

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)— Hurricane Beulah battered the southern coast of the Dominican Republic with 125-mile-an-hour killer winds today and aimed her fury westward toward the voodoo island of Haiti, most heavily populated country in the Western Hemisphere.

More than 1,000 persons in the Dominican Republic's Barahona Peninsula fled the advancing storm, blamed for 16 deaths in the eastern Caribbean.

There was no immediate word from the peninsula, where hurricanes bring traditional flooding. More than a dozen persons lost their lives there last year when Hurricane Inez swept through.

Forecasters in Miami said Beulah's westward course would take her across the peninsula on a route that would carry her parallel with Haiti's Massif du Nord mountain range.

At 10 a.m., EDT, Beulah's calm eye was located over the Barahona Peninsula at Latitude 17.8 North, Longitude 71.6 West, or about 70 miles southeast of Port Au Prince, Haiti and some 650 miles southeast of Miami.

Weathermen also kept track of Hurricane Chloe and Hurricane Doria in the Atlantic.

Doria, off the Virginia Capes, was plotted near Latitude 36.2 North, Longitude 72.0 West. Chloe, far out to sea, was put near Latitude 26.5 North, Longitude 47.0 West.

"Heavy rains and massive flooding are certainly in store for Haiti and these are the things that can cause deaths," said Dr. Robert H. Simpson of the National Hurricane Center at Miami. "This storm definitely will give Haiti a lot of trouble." Dr. Simpson said wind currents near the mountain range could easily sweep the massive storm across the range and into Haiti's narrow valleys, causing them to flood.

Residents in Haiti and along the southern Coast of Eastern Cuba were warned to take immediate precautions against flooding and storm tides up to eight feet above normal.

Dr. Simpson said Beulah would probably either pass by or across the Haitian peninsula during the evening.

In either case, her winds would affect the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo, only 60 miles from the tip of the peninsula, on Cuba's southeastern coast. Spokesmen at the base said storm preprations began Sunday night.

The storm skirted Santo Domingo, the Dominican Republic's coastal capital but gale force winds and heavy rains hit the city Sunday night after raking sections of Puerto Rico earlier in the day.

The steep mountains and narrow valleys of the Barahona Peninsula and Haiti's long, narrow western peninsula act as huge spillways when tropical storms dump their millions of gallons of water.

In 1963, Hurricane Flora passed through Haiti, causing thousands of deaths. Last year, Inez was blamed for an estimated 200 in Haiti where most of the nearly 5,000,000 natives live in rickety shacks.

Only 44 of Gibraltar's 12,672 registered voters voted Sunday in favor of returning the colony to Spain after 263 years of British rule.

Glenn Greene Named Director of Circulators

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — Newspaper boys drew much attention here over the weekend at the annual meeting of the Missouri Circulation Managers Association.

After the meeting with the governor, one of them will be selected by the circulation managers for the Missouri State Newspaper Boy Hall of Fame at the University of Missouri.

The youth selected and his parents will be honored at a meeting next fall of the Missouri Press Association in Kansas City.

Lines in City to Expand

A housing and urban development grant of $892,000 for assistance in construction of improvements to water and sewer lines in Sikeston was announced today by Sens. Stuart Symington, Edward V. Long and Rep. Paul C. Jones.

The grant matches money approved for water and sewer lines improvements, which were included in the May, 1965, $1,200,000 bond issue.

Initial phases of the water and sewer improvements approved by passage of the bond issue currently are underway.

"This grant will allow us to install almost twice as many water and sewer lines," E. R. Inman, director of the city light and water department said today.

The money will be for sewer and water lines into new areas for potential development of industry and residential areas, Inman said.

Work to be accomplished by approval of the grant includes:

1. Installation of new water mains and enlarging existing mains in the Sunset area.

2. A more extensive water system to be installed in the airport industrial area.

3. Construction of sewer lines to the west city limits industrial area in the general vicinity of Malone & Hyde Inc.

4. Installation of 12" sewer lines to the undeveloped industrial area north of the steam plant.

5. The work, also, will probably include a pumping station to help the north end of town. It would help pump sewage to the treatment plant located off Ables Road south of the Sikeston Concrete Products Co., Ingram Road.

Kansas Beauty Begins Miss America Reign

NEW YORK (AP)— "Just look at all the tall buildings," exclaimed Debra Dene Barnes, the new Miss America, as she got her first glimpse of New York.

Things looked a lot different in her home town, Moran, Kan. — population 550.

The 20-year-old blue-eyed brunette— 5-foot-9— 135 pounds— and 36½-24-36½— is here on the first stop of about 200,000 miles she will travel during her year-long reign.

She arrived by car Sunday night from Atlantic City, N.J., where she was crowned Saturday night in the windup of the Miss America Pageant.

Miss Barnes, who checked into a midtown hotel with the four ladies of her court, told newsmen she would "love to go" to Vietnam to entertain U. S. troops as her predecessor, Jane Anne Jayroe, did. There were no immediate plans for that, however.

Asked at a news conference in Atlantic City what she would do if she suddenly had $1 million, Miss America, a music major in college, said: "I would buy a grand piano and donate the rest to research for multiple sclerosis."

Her mother, Mrs. Dwight Barnes, was stricken with the crippling muscle disease 11 years ago and has been bedridden in a hospital at Fort Scott, Kan., for the last 2½ years.

The new Miss America is a junior at Kansas State College at Pittsburg. After college she wants to teach piano at the college level and play in concerts. She received a $10,000 scholarship for winning the title and will earn an estimated $90,000 in personal appearance fees.

Wedding Bells to Ring for Lynda Bird in December

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A White House wedding in early December is planned for Lynda Bird Johnson and Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, who met the President's daughter in the line of duty.

Smiling, holding hands, the young couple flew back from Texas Sunday night aboard the presidential jet plane after President and Mrs. Johnson announced their engagement from the LBJ ranch.

Lynda, 23, the Johnsons' older daughter, showed off her sparkling diamond engagement ring, but ignored photographers' requests to kiss her 28-year-old fiance, a tall, slender, dark-haired young man from Milwaukee, Wis.

The surprise announcement of Lynda's engagement ended continued speculation over the romantic interest of the president's daughter. She had numerous beaus through the years and broke an engagement to a young Navy lieutenant three years ago.

Until Robb came along, Lynda had been dating Hollywood actor George Hamilton more than anyone else. A few weeks ago, though, Hamilton declared "marriage is not in the immediate future."

Robb, who plans to make the Marines his career and is scheduled to go to Vietnam in February, first met Lynda a little more than a year ago when he was assigned to the White House as a military social aide.

Child Found With Ross Family

State police in Tucumcari, N. M., arrested Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross, Sikeston, Sunday on a kidnapping warrant charging they took Tracy Lynn Sisk, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sisk, 242 Daniel.

The warrant was issued Sunday by prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick.

The child was reported missing at 7:58 p.m. Friday by her father. She was placed in a foster home in Tucumcari, until her parents arrive. Mr. and Mrs. Sisk left Sikeston Sunday and should arrive in New Mexico late today or tomorrow, Potashnick said.

Tracy was in good health and apparently happy to be with the Rosses according to New Mexico state police, Potashnick said.

The warrent was issued to protect the New Mexico state police from making a false arrest, Potashnick said.

The officer who questioned the Rosses Sunday reported they told him that Mrs. Sisk told them to take the child with them, Potashnick said.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisk said Saturday morning that they told Ross to drive the child around the block and return her home.

The Rosses are being held in jail at Tucumcari and will appear before a circuit judge today to give them a chance to waive extradition so they can be returned to Missouri, Potashnick said.

They (the Rosses) indicated to the arresting officers that they would waive extradition and were naxious to clear the matter. Their story as to why the child was with them conflicted with the account given by Tracy's parents, Potashnick related.

They also said that Tracy had been living with them about half of the time for the past few months he added.

Kennedy Prepares 3 Bills To Regulate Cigarettes

NEW YORK (AP)— Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said today he will introduce three bills to regulate the cigarette industry because, he said, it is "peddling a deadly weapon" through what he called a largely ineffective self-regulation code.

His promise to introduce the bills in the Senate Tuesday was coupled with a declaration that cigarette companies are "dealing in people's lives for financial gain."

Kennedy made the announcement in a speech prepared for the three-day World Conference on Smoking and Health which opened today.

He said, "Cigarettes would have been banned years ago were it not for the tremendous economic power of their producers."

Two of his bills, he said, are aimed at countering some of the effects of advertising by the cigarette companies, which he said costs almost $300 million a year.

The first would extend the 1965 law, so that all advertising would have to carry the message: "Warning: Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous to Health and May Cause Death from Cancer and Other Diseases."

The Federal Communications Commission would have the power under the second bill to regulate the times and types of broadcast programs on which cigarette advertising may appear, as well as the overall volume of cigarette advertising.

The third bill would establish a sliding federal tax on cigarettes to replace the present flat $4 per 1,000, to encourage the production of cigarettes with less tar and nicotine.

The tobacco industry contends there is no scientific proof of a link between smoking and cancer.

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, a vice president of the American Cancer Society, said in a prepared conference speech that smoking cigarettes shortens the life span— as much as eight years for the two-pack-a-day man who is now 25 years old.

Hammond, a medical statistician, said that a 25-year-old American male who smokes two packs a day or more has an average life expectancy of 65.3 years. He said the average lifetime would be 73.6 years for the same young man if he never smoked regularly.

Hammond's figures were drawn from the cancer society's long-range look at the circumstances and habits of American life for hints to what leads to various causes of death.

The society's study covers 447,196 men of all ages. Up to June 30, 1965, over 39,000 enrolled in the study had died.

It showed that even a few cigarettes smoked regularly are harmful, Hammond said.

For the 25-year-old male who smokes up to nine cigarettes a day, the average life expectancy is 69, five years short of the average for non-smokers, Hammond said.

The conference is sponsored by 22 agencies and organizations, representing the federal government and health, professional, and service organizations. Many of the member groups are on the record as condemning cigarette smoking as injurious to health. The council itself is dedicated to spreading information on the hazards of cigarettes and tobacco.

N.Y. Teachers Defy Courts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A teacher walkout described by union leaders as 90 per cent effective crippled the fall opening of New York City's massive million-pupil school system today while teachers continued walkouts in Detroit and other cities.

New York teachers, defying a court order, stayed home or manned picket lines. In Michigan a move was made to try to stay a similar injunction order.

In Detroit, more than 4,000 teachers heard a union leader vow to continue the walkout "until the snow flies" if necessary, and heard a promise of support from the United Auto Workers, whose members are on strike against the Ford Motor Co.

Michigan Gov. George Romney refused to ask the legislature to appropriate money to meet the teachers' demands.

New York's Board of Education was attempting to keep schools open in the absence of thousands of teachers, but many classes had to be dismissed de-

Breathitt Takes Up Plea for Tax Sharing Plan

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky warned the Southern Governors Conference today that the "overcentralization of government is a real danger" and can be stopped only "when the states meet their own responsibilities."

To help the states, Breathitt called for a federal-state tax sharing plan.

"The only avenue toward fiscal freedom for state and local governments," he said, "lies in a general, unearmarked revenue-sharing plan" with the federal government or possibly a very strong, generous tax ax credit at the federal level for state income taxes."

The Kentucky Democrat, chairman of the conference, made the comments in a prepared address for the four-day meeting's opening session.

Breathitt called on state governments to "prevent the ruthless destruction of our soil, water, air and scenic resources."

And he said, states should encourage "fresh and original approaches to the solution of our educational problems."

Meanwhile, the governors attending the conference were to discuss at length today Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's controversial proposal to reorganize National Guard units.

Governors attending the conference in addition to Breathitt, are Dan Moore of North Carolina, Charles Terry of Delaware, Burford Ellington of Tennessee, Mills E. Godwin Jr. of Virginia, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, Nulett C. Smith of West Virginia, Robert McNair of South Carolina, Lester Maddox of Georgia, Paul B. Johnson Jr. of Mississippi, John J. McKeithen of Louisiana, Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri and Dewey F. Bartlett of Oklahoma.

Port of Cam Pha Heavily Damaged by First U.S. Attack

Bloomfield Woman Dies at Car Wheel

Mrs. Arlene Bess, 47, Bloomfield, was killed when she apparently fell asleep while driving her car at 4:15 a.m. Sunday on highway 60, two miles west of Sikeston, the highway patrol said.

The car went out of control and overturned.

She was born March 25, 1920, at Puxico.

She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and served as past worthy matron and grand adah of the Missouri grand chapter.

In November, 1938, she married Donald L. Bess, who survives. He is the Bloomfield postmaster.

Other survivors are two sons, Thomas and Donald Bess, Jr., both of Gorham, Ill.; one brother, Clarence Harbin, Long Beach, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Paul Anderson, Cape Girardeau, and three grandchildren.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the First Baptist church in Bloomfield with the Rev. Guy Magee officiating.

Burial will be in Bloomfield cemetery.

The body is at Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield.

More Work, Less Respect for Officers

Sheriff John Dennis in a talk to the Optimist club today at the Rustic Rock told his audience "in the last few years a change has taken place in attitudes toward law enforcement.

"People used to say "Mr." when they addressed an officer, but now it's John and Joe," he said.

"They feel that when an officer comes around he is snooping."

Sheriff Dennis was introduced by Tom Gilmore, club secretary.

"The work load of the enforcement officers in Scott County has more than doubled in the last five years, and is placed on three deputies and myself for the 33,000 persons in the county," Dennis said.

John Dennis

"Much of the increase," Dennis added, "was due to the many small towns in the county, who have no officers, or have but one man, and some of them draw no more than $140 per month. We are going to have to have more persons to help us enforce the laws.

"Since radar has been put into effect, our officers receive many calls per week, and since the highway patrol is kept busy tracking down violators that pass through from distant points, they can't assist our officers on many of the calls."

"The circuit court cases has increased until now sessions are held 15 to 20 days each month. Our magistrate court now meets two times each week, and the load at our county jail has increased at the same rate with no additional help, and not even a cook.

"There are a few bright sides to our law enforcement problems. You have an efficient city law enforcement group, and this group has taken advantage of the best training available in the country, by sending them to take courses at Rolla.

"I wish to remind you that when Interstate 57 reaches Sikeston, the increased traffic will cause an additional upsurge in law enforcement work for officers in Scott county.

President John Harper announced that the club in cooperation with the Community Action Agency would take a group of 60 boys, from both the east and west sides of Sikeston to St. Louis. The boys, who were members of the Optimist Buddy baseball teams this summer, will attend the St. Louis Cardinals - Philadelphia Phillies baseball game at Busch Memorial Stadium Wednesday night.

The club members will take the boys to the Town Plaza Shopping center, where all boys and members will board two buses at 4:30 p.m. for the round trip.

Shooting Mishap Injures Hunter

J. T. Copaus, route two, Sikeston was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital Sunday afternoon for shotgun wounds suffered in the left side and back, police reported.

Copaus was injured in a dove hunting accident. His son-in-law Ken Parker, route two, Sikeston, fired the shot that accidentally hit him, police reported.

In other activity, a 12 year old Sikeston youth was arrested after a police chase at 12:30 a.m. Sunday on Compress Road and charged with auto theft. The youth took a car owned by James Taylor, 336 Magnolia, police said.

During the chase, the youth crossed the left side of Compress Road, ran off in a side ditch and struck a fence post. The car was damaged extensively, and the driver suffered a minor injury to one of his fingers, police said.

Chester Ray Martin, 839 East Kathleen, was charged by police at 3:35 a.m. Sunday on East Kathleen with driving while intoxicated, no city license and operating a vehicle while his operator's license was revoked.

Clifford Russell Jr., 816 Wayne, was charged at 11:35 p.m. Sunday on South Main with operating a motor vehicle with no city auto license.

Lawrence Robinett, Dunn Hotel, was charged at 11:45 p.m. Saturday with public intoxication. He was arrested on North Street, police reported.

Paula K. Wren, 107 Baker Lane, reported to police Saturday that a set of wedding rings apparently were stolen from her mailbox. The mailman told her the package arrived last Wednesday, but she has not received it yet, she told police.

Willie Lane, 307 Alabama, reported to police Sunday that a red Schwinn spider bicycle with a black seat was taken from 1408 Osage St.

A blue and green plaid baby carriage was found during the weekend at Ingram and Helen and given to police.

Outnumbered Marines Cut Off Invaders

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy planes delivered a smashing blow Sunday at Cam Pha in North Vietnam and pilots reported they all but knocked out that port, used to export coal to pay for arms from abroad. It was the first raid on Cam Pha, previously on the Pentagon's restricted list.

Aground, U.S. Marines outnumbered 4 to 1 beat back 3,000 North Vietnamese who apparently were trying to cut off their supply base at Con Thien near the demilitarized zone. The U.S. Command said at least 141 enemy troops were killed. Marine losses were 34 killed and 185 wounded.

South Vietnamese troops also were heavily engaged Sunday in the northern area. They reported killing 70 Communist troops. The Reds replied early today with a mortar and ground attack on the provincial capital of Hoi An, three district headquarters and five militia outposts.

Until the raid Sunday, the port of Cam Pha north of the main major one at Haiphong, had been immune from attack although antiaircraft sites on its outskirts were blasted in June. That was when pilots strafed the Soviet merchant ship Turkistan in Cam Pha harbor.

Striking deep into North Vietnam, Air Forces planes ran into MIG17s. One Communist jet was probably downed by an F105 Thunderchief pilot, who said it flipped over and vanished after his cannon fire ripped into its wings.

The battle between Marines and North Vietnamese in the north was one of almost daily engagements since last Monday. The allied commands have reported more than 900 of the enemy killed in the five northern provinces where the North Vietnamese are expected to try an offensive. U.S. casualties have totaled 149 killed and 567 wounded, nearly all of them Marines.

Marine forces today were sweeping the bloody field 4½ miles south of the demilitarized zone where they hit the North Vietnamese regiment Sunday.

The Marines had been moving from the nearby bunkered fortress of Con Thien when the fight erupted among low hills and thick brush. There were four Marine companies— less than 800 men at field strength— initially split into two sweeping flanks.

While the Marines called in air and artillery strikes, the Reds replied with the big 140mm Russian rockets which are among their heaviest weapons.

As dusk settled, Air Force Dragon ships lit the battered terrain with flares and kept up a blistering rain of fire from miniguns which spew about 6,000 bullets per minute. Air observers in light spotter planes reported Communist dead stacking up in some positions during the battle. After six

Eagleton Will Oppose Long for Senate Seat

ST. LOUIS -- Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton today announced that he will file for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate seat now held by Sen. Edward V. Long, who has announced he will seek re-election.

Eagleton made his announcement at a press conference.

Eagleton said; "For several weeks I have been canvassing Missouri to ascertain public sentiment with respect to my becoming a candidate for the Senate.

Thomas F. Eagleton

"I have visited many areas of the state. The response I have received has been encouraging.

"My campaign will be based on a discussion of many serious and perplexing problems which face our state and nation.

"Among these problems are American foreign policy, the growing urbanization of America with the migration of people from rural to urban areas, the failure of farm income to keep pace with rising costs in other sectors of the economy.

"I hope to bring my campaign to the people so that they may hear where I stand and what I would propose if I am fortunate enough to be elected to the United States senate."

Eagleton said that he would not begin his formal campaign until later. He stated he was making his announcement so as to "clear the way" for those who might want to seek his present office as lieutenant governor and also to give him the necessary time to set up a campaign organization throughout Missouri.

The grant matches money approved for water and sewer lines improvements, which were included in the May, 1965, $1,200,000 bond issue.

Initial phases of the water and sewer improvements approved by passage of the bond issue currently are underway.

"This grant will allow us to install almost twice as many water and sewer lines," E. R. Inman, director of the city light and water department said today.

The money will be for sewer and water lines into new areas for potential development of industry and residential areas, Inman said.

Work to be accomplished by approval of the grant includes:

1. Installation of new water mains and enlarging existing mains in the Sunset area.

2. A more extensive water system to be installed in the airport industrial area.

3. Construction of sewer lines to the west city limits industrial area in the general vicinity of Malone & Hyde Inc.

4. Installation of 12" sewer lines to the undeveloped industrial area north of the steam plant.

5. The work, also, will probably include a pumping station to help the north end of town. It would help pump sewage to the treatment plant located off Ables Road south of the Sikeston Concrete Products Co., Ingram Road.

Kansas Beauty Begins Miss America Reign

NEW YORK (AP)— "Just look at all the tall buildings," exclaimed Debra Dene Barnes, the new Miss America, as she got her first glimpse of New York.

Things looked a lot different in her home town, Moran, Kan. — population 550.

The 20-year-old blue-eyed brunette— 5-foot-9— 135 pounds— and 36½-24-36½— is here on the first stop of about 200,000 miles she will travel during her year-long reign.

She arrived by car Sunday night from Atlantic City, N.J., where she was crowned Saturday night in the windup of the Miss America Pageant.

Miss Barnes, who checked into a midtown hotel with the four ladies of her court, told newsmen she would "love to go" to Vietnam to entertain U. S. troops as her predecessor, Jane Anne Jayroe, did. There were no immediate plans for that, however.

Asked at a news conference in Atlantic City what she would do if she suddenly had $1 million, Miss America, a music major in college, said: "I would buy a grand piano and donate the rest to research for multiple sclerosis."

Her mother, Mrs. Dwight Barnes, was stricken with the crippling muscle disease 11 years ago and has been bedridden in a hospital at Fort Scott, Kan., for the last 2½ years.

The new Miss America is a junior at Kansas State College at Pittsburg. After college she wants to teach piano at the college level and play in concerts. She received a $10,000 scholarship for winning the title and will earn an estimated $90,000 in personal appearance fees.

Wedding Bells to Ring for Lynda Bird in December

WASHINGTON (AP) -- A White House wedding in early December is planned for Lynda Bird Johnson and Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb, who met the President's daughter in the line of duty.

Smiling, holding hands, the young couple flew back from Texas Sunday night aboard the presidential jet plane after President and Mrs. Johnson announced their engagement from the LBJ ranch.

Lynda, 23, the Johnsons' older daughter, showed off her sparkling diamond engagement ring, but ignored photographers' requests to kiss her 28-year-old fiance, a tall, slender, dark-haired young man from Milwaukee, Wis.

The surprise announcement of Lynda's engagement ended continued speculation over the romantic interest of the president's daughter. She had numerous beaus through the years and broke an engagement to a young Navy lieutenant three years ago.

Until Robb came along, Lynda had been dating Hollywood actor George Hamilton more than anyone else. A few weeks ago, though, Hamilton declared "marriage is not in the immediate future."

Robb, who plans to make the Marines his career and is scheduled to go to Vietnam in February, first met Lynda a little more than a year ago when he was assigned to the White House as a military social aide.

Child Found With Ross Family

State police in Tucumcari, N. M., arrested Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ross, Sikeston, Sunday on a kidnapping warrant charging they took Tracy Lynn Sisk, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Sisk, 242 Daniel.

The warrant was issued Sunday by prosecuting attorney Fielding Potashnick.

The child was reported missing at 7:58 p.m. Friday by her father. She was placed in a foster home in Tucumcari, until her parents arrive. Mr. and Mrs. Sisk left Sikeston Sunday and should arrive in New Mexico late today or tomorrow, Potashnick said.

Tracy was in good health and apparently happy to be with the Rosses according to New Mexico state police, Potashnick said.

The warrent was issued to protect the New Mexico state police from making a false arrest, Potashnick said.

The officer who questioned the Rosses Sunday reported they told him that Mrs. Sisk told them to take the child with them, Potashnick said.

Mr. and Mrs. Sisk said Saturday morning that they told Ross to drive the child around the block and return her home.

The Rosses are being held in jail at Tucumcari and will appear before a circuit judge today to give them a chance to waive extradition so they can be returned to Missouri, Potashnick said.

They (the Rosses) indicated to the arresting officers that they would waive extradition and were anxious to clear the matter. Their story as to why the child was with them conflicted with the account given by Tracy's parents, Potashnick related.

They also said that Tracy had been living with them about half of the time for the past few months he added.

Kennedy Prepares 3 Bills To Regulate Cigarettes

NEW YORK (AP)— Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D.N.Y., said today he will introduce three bills to regulate the cigarette industry because, he said, it is "peddling a deadly weapon" through what he called a largely ineffective self-regulation code.

His promise to introduce the bills in the Senate Tuesday was coupled with a declaration that cigarette companies are "dealing in people's lives for financial gain."

Kennedy made the announcement in a speech prepared for the three-day World Conference on Smoking and Health which opened today.

He said, "Cigarettes would have been banned years ago were it not for the tremendous economic power of their producers."

Two of his bills, he said, are aimed at countering some of the effects of advertising by the cigarette companies, which he said costs almost $300 million a year.

The first would extend the 1965 law, so that all advertising would have to carry the message: "Warning: Cigarette Smoking is Dangerous to Health and May Cause Death from Cancer and Other Diseases."

The Federal Communications Commission would have the power under the second bill to regulate the times and types of broadcast programs on which cigarette advertising may appear, as well as the overall volume of cigarette advertising.

The third bill would establish a sliding federal tax on cigarettes to replace the present flat $4 per 1,000, to encourage the production of cigarettes with less tar and nicotine.

The tobacco industry contends there is no scientific proof of a link between smoking and cancer.

Dr. E. Cuyler Hammond, a vice president of the American Cancer Society, said in a prepared conference speech that smoking cigarettes shortens the life span— as much as eight years for the two-pack-a-day man who is now 25 years old.

Hammond, a medical statistician, said that a 25-year-old American male who smokes two packs a day or more has an average life expectancy of 65.3 years. He said the average lifetime would be 73.6 years for the same young man if he never smoked regularly.

Hammond's figures were drawn from the cancer society's long-range look at the circumstances and habits of American life for hints to what leads to various causes of death.

The society's study covers 447,196 men of all ages. Up to June 30, 1965, over 39,000 enrolled in the study had died.

It showed that even a few cigarettes smoked regularly are harmful, Hammond said.

For the 25-year-old male who smokes up to nine cigarettes a day, the average life expectancy is 69, five years short of the average for non-smokers, Hammond said.

The conference is sponsored by 22 agencies and organizations, representing the federal government and health, professional, and service organizations. Many of the member groups are on the record as condemning cigarette smoking as injurious to health. The council itself is dedicated to spreading information on the hazards of cigarettes and tobacco.

N.Y. Teachers Defy Courts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A teacher walkout described by union leaders as 90 per cent effective crippled the fall opening of New York City's massive million-pupil school system today while teachers continued walkouts in Detroit and other cities.

New York teachers, defying a court order, stayed home or manned picket lines. In Michigan a move was made to try to stay a similar injunction order.

In Detroit, more than 4,000 teachers heard a union leader vow to continue the walkout "until the snow flies" if necessary, and heard a promise of support from the United Auto Workers, whose members are on strike against the Ford Motor Co.

Michigan Gov. George Romney refused to ask the legislature to appropriate money to meet the teachers' demands.

New York's Board of Education was attempting to keep schools open in the absence of thousands of teachers, but many classes had to be dismissed de-

Breathitt Takes Up Plea for Tax Sharing Plan

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Edward T. Breathitt of Kentucky warned the Southern Governors Conference today that the "overcentralization of government is a real danger" and can be stopped only "when the states meet their own responsibilities."

To help the states, Breathitt called for a federal-state tax sharing plan.

"The only avenue toward fiscal freedom for state and local governments," he said, "lies in a general, unearmarked revenue-sharing plan" with the federal government or possibly a very strong, generous tax ax credit at the federal level for state income taxes."

The Kentucky Democrat, chairman of the conference, made the comments in a prepared address for the four-day meeting's opening session.

Breathitt called on state governments to "prevent the ruthless destruction of our soil, water, air and scenic resources."

And he said, states should encourage "fresh and original approaches to the solution of our educational problems."

Meanwhile, the governors attending the conference were to discuss at length today Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's controversial proposal to reorganize National Guard units.

Governors attending the conference in addition to Breathitt, are Dan Moore of North Carolina, Charles Terry of Delaware, Burford Ellington of Tennessee, Mills E. Godwin Jr. of Virginia, Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, Nulett C. Smith of West Virginia, Robert McNair of South Carolina, Lester Maddox of Georgia, Paul B. Johnson Jr. of Mississippi, John J. McKeithen of Louisiana, Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri and Dewey F. Bartlett of Oklahoma.

Port of Cam Pha Heavily Damaged by First U.S. Attack

Bloomfield Woman Dies at Car Wheel

Mrs. Arlene Bess, 47, Bloomfield, was killed when she apparently fell asleep while driving her car at 4:15 a.m. Sunday on highway 60, two miles west of Sikeston, the highway patrol said.

The car went out of control and overturned.

She was born March 25, 1920, at Puxico.

She was a member of the Order of the Eastern Star and served as past worthy matron and grand adah of the Missouri grand chapter.

In November, 1938, she married Donald L. Bess, who survives. He is the Bloomfield postmaster.

Other survivors are two sons, Thomas and Donald Bess, Jr., both of Gorham, Ill.; one brother, Clarence Harbin, Long Beach, Calif.; one sister, Mrs. Paul Anderson, Cape Girardeau, and three grandchildren.

Services will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the First Baptist church in Bloomfield with the Rev. Guy Magee officiating.

Burial will be in Bloomfield cemetery.

The body is at Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield.

More Work, Less Respect for Officers

Sheriff John Dennis in a talk to the Optimist club today at the Rustic Rock told his audience "in the last few years a change has taken place in attitudes toward law enforcement.

"People used to say "Mr." when they addressed an officer, but now it's John and Joe," he said.

"They feel that when an officer comes around he is snooping."

Sheriff Dennis was introduced by Tom Gilmore, club secretary.

"The work load of the enforcement officers in Scott County has more than doubled in the last five years, and is placed on three deputies and myself for the 33,000 persons in the county," Dennis said.

John Dennis

"Much of the increase," Dennis added, "was due to the many small towns in the county, who have no officers, or have but one man, and some of them draw no more than $140 per month. We are going to have to have more persons to help us enforce the laws.

"Since radar has been put into effect, our officers receive many calls per week, and since the highway patrol is kept busy tracking down violators that pass through from distant points, they can't assist our officers on many of the calls."

"The circuit court cases has increased until now sessions are held 15 to 20 days each month. Our magistrate court now meets two times each week, and the load at our county jail has increased at the same rate with no additional help, and not even a cook.

"There are a few bright sides to our law enforcement problems. You have an efficient city law enforcement group, and this group has taken advantage of the best training available in the country, by sending them to take courses at Rolla.

"I wish to remind you that when Interstate 57 reaches Sikeston, the increased traffic will cause an additional upsurge in law enforcement work for officers in Scott county.

President John Harper announced that the club in cooperation with the Community Action Agency would take a group of 60 boys, from both the east and west sides of Sikeston to St. Louis. The boys, who were members of the Optimist Buddy baseball teams this summer, will attend the St. Louis Cardinals - Philadelphia Phillies baseball game at Busch Memorial Stadium Wednesday night.

The club members will take the boys to the Town Plaza Shopping center, where all boys and members will board two buses at 4:30 p.m. for the round trip.

Shooting Mishap Injures Hunter

J. T. Copaus, route two, Sikeston was treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital Sunday afternoon for shotgun wounds suffered in the left side and back, police reported.

Copaus was injured in a dove hunting accident. His son-in-law Ken Parker, route two, Sikeston, fired the shot that accidentally hit him, police reported.

In other activity, a 12 year old Sikeston youth was arrested after a police chase at 12:30 a.m. Sunday on Compress Road and charged with auto theft. The youth took a car owned by James Taylor, 336 Magnolia, police said.

During the chase, the youth crossed the left side of Compress Road, ran off in a side ditch and struck a fence post. The car was damaged extensively, and the driver suffered a minor injury to one of his fingers, police said.

Chester Ray Martin, 839 East Kathleen, was charged by police at 3:35 a.m. Sunday on East Kathleen with driving while intoxicated, no city license and operating a vehicle while his operator's license was revoked.

Clifford Russell Jr., 816 Wayne, was charged at 11:35 p.m. Sunday on South Main with operating a motor vehicle with no city auto license.

Lawrence Robinett, Dunn Hotel, was charged at 11:45 p.m. Saturday with public intoxication. He was arrested on North Street, police reported.

Paula K. Wren, 107 Baker Lane, reported to police Saturday that a set of wedding rings apparently were stolen from her mailbox. The mailman told her the package arrived last Wednesday, but she has not received it yet, she told police.

Willie Lane, 307 Alabama, reported to police Sunday that a red Schwinn spider bicycle with a black seat was taken from 1408 Osage St.

A blue and green plaid baby carriage was found during the weekend at Ingram and Helen and given to police.

Outnumbered Marines Cut Off Invaders

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy planes delivered a smashing blow Sunday at Cam Pha in North Vietnam and pilots reported they all but knocked out that port, used to export coal to pay for arms from abroad. It was the first raid on Cam Pha, previously on the Pentagon's restricted list.

Aground, U.S. Marines outnumbered 4 to 1 beat back 3,000 North Vietnamese who apparently were trying to cut off their supply base at Con Thien near the demilitarized zone. The U.S. Command said at least 141 enemy troops were killed. Marine losses were 34 killed and 185 wounded.

South Vietnamese troops also were heavily engaged Sunday in the northern area. They reported killing 70 Communist troops. The Reds replied early today with a mortar and ground attack on the provincial capital of Hoi An, three district headquarters and five militia outposts.

Until the raid Sunday, the port of Cam Pha north of the main major one at Haiphong, had been immune from attack although antiaircraft sites on its outskirts were blasted in June. That was when pilots strafed the Soviet merchant ship Turkistan in Cam Pha harbor.

Striking deep into North Vietnam, Air Forces planes ran into MIG17s. One Communist jet was probably downed by an F105 Thunderchief pilot, who said it flipped over and vanished after his cannon fire ripped into its wings.

The battle between Marines and North Vietnamese in the north was one of almost daily engagements since last Monday. The allied commands have reported more than 900 of the enemy killed in the five northern provinces where the North Vietnamese are expected to try an offensive. U.S. casualties have totaled 149 killed and 567 wounded, nearly all of them Marines.

Marine forces today were sweeping the bloody field 4½ miles south of the demilitarized zone where they hit the North Vietnamese regiment Sunday.

The Marines had been moving from the nearby bunkered fortress of Con Thien when the fight erupted among low hills and thick brush. There were four Marine companies— less than 800 men at field strength— initially split into two sweeping flanks.

While the Marines called in air and artillery strikes, the Reds replied with the big 140mm Russian rockets which are among their heaviest weapons.

As dusk settled, Air Force Dragon ships lit the battered terrain with flares and kept up a blistering rain of fire from miniguns which spew about 6,000 bullets per minute. Air observers in light spotter planes reported Communist dead stacking up in some positions during the battle. After six

Eagleton Will Oppose Long for Senate Seat

ST. LOUIS -- Lieut. Gov. Thomas F. Eagleton today announced that he will file for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate seat now held by Sen. Edward V. Long, who has announced he will seek re-election.

Eagleton made his announcement at a press conference.

Eagleton said: "For several weeks I have been canvassing Missouri to ascertain public sentiment with respect to my becoming a candidate for the Senate.

"I have visited many areas of the state. The response I have received has been encouraging.

"My campaign will be based on a discussion of many serious and perplexing problems which face our state and nation.

"Among these problems are American foreign policy, the growing urbanization of America with the migration of people from rural to urban areas, the failure of farm income to keep pace with rising costs in other sectors of the economy.

"I hope to bring my campaign to the people so that they may hear where I stand and what I would propose if I am fortunate enough to be elected to the United States senate."

Eagleton said that he would not begin his formal campaign until later. He stated he was making his announcement so as to "clear the way" for those who might want to seek his present office as lieutenant governor and also to give him the necessary time to set up a campaign organization throughout Missouri.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

FADING U. S. LAW

The federal authorities, from the President and Attorney General on down, and including the federal courts, are handling H. Rap Brown with kid gloves. This insolent rabble-rouser, who openly threatens murder and incites to arson, is allowed to say and do almost anything he pleases.

He and his followers are permitted to shout and yell in court. Before U. S. District Judge Thomas Murphy for some strange reason reduced Brown's ball from $25,000 to $15,000, the Brown claque in the courtroom interrupted repeatedly with shouts of "Black Power!" The room should have been cleared.

Let us suppose that members of the John Birch Society or the American Nazis or the Ku Klux Klan were to attempt to take over any courtroom in this country. They would be promptly slapped down. If they set fire to dozens of blocks in a large city and began looting, they would be arrested. If they resisted arrest, they would be overpowered, and perhaps shot.

But recent mobs have been permitted to run wild ir our cities, looting and burning. True, they are large mobs -- far more numerous than could be mustered by the John Birchers or the KKK. But the United States Government, its armed forces and its courts, are either in control of this country or they aren't. Apparently, they aren't.

The U. S. Supreme Court is among those bearing the heaviest share of responsibility for the prevailing lack of law and order. President Johnson is another who has shown a great lack of force in putting down the riots. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, probably the weakest incumbent of his office in modern times, is seriously culpable.

Their attitude has carried over into the lower federal courts. Why, for example, should Rap Brown's bail have been reduced from $25,000 to $15,000? True, the offense for which Brown was arrested was carrying a rifle when under indictment. This, under normal circumstances, would not have called for bail of $25,000.

But Brown is no ordinary defendant. When arrested with the gun, he was under indictment in inciting a mob in Cambridge, Md., to burn that town. He has been inciting other mobs to loot, burn and murder.

In the face of these facts, the federal district court in New York reduces his bail! He will now embark on a nationwide speaking tour.

On that tour, we may be sure, he will again exhort his audiences to put cities to the torch, to shoot various officials, take over the government and otherwise promote anarchy and revolution.

George Mason and Thomas Jefferson believed deeply in free speech, but it is greatly to be doubted if they would tolerate such incendiary, murderous and seditious appeals as we are hearing daily from Rap Brown. There are limits to all things. Brown passed those limits long ago.

IKE'S 1961 WARNING RECALLED

On Jan. 17, 1961, President Dwight D. Eisenhower made his last speech to the nation from the White House.

In that speech he noted that as a result of World War II the United States for the first time had developed an armaments industry of vast proportions. The nation also had developed a defense establishment involving 3.5 million men and women.

"This conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry is new in the American experience," he said. ". . . We recognize the imperative need for this development. Yet we must not fail to comprehend its grave implications . . .

"In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist.

". . . Only an alert and knowledgeable citizenry can compel the proper meshing of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals, so that security and liberty may prosper together. . ."

THE significance of President Eisenhower's words escaped most observers at the time. It caused passing comment, little more.

But now the real significance is coming through clearly.

It is coming in revelation of some of the testimony given recently before the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee which has been investigating arms sales by the United States to foreign countries.

That testimony has brought out that such arms sales have increased from about 300 million dollars a year in 1961 (when President Eisenhower was speaking) to more than 1,700 million dollars last year.

It has become a big business, run by the Pentagon with a "deputy assistant secretary of defense for international logistics negotiations" serving as the nation's full-time salesman for weapons overseas.

How big this business has become is indicated in the statement by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara in defense of the program. In the 1960-70 decade, he said, it will mean 1.4 million man years of employment and more than a billion dollars in profits for United States industry. Business Week magazine as early as last December noted that the chief beneficiaries of the arms-for-sale business were such corporations as General Dynamics, Lockhead Aircraft and McDonnell of St. Louis.

Defender of the sales say that if the United States did not supply the arms the buyers would turn to Russia or other suppliers. But the fact remains that while the United States is not alone among the suppliers, none matches the volume of exports of this nation.

Henry J. Kuss Jr., the Pentagon's arms salesman, boasts that the United States leads in this race because "no other nation can touch us in over-all technological know-how, quality, price, delivery time, follow-up logistical support and credit terms."

But it is exactly these facts that have caused concern to such men as Senator Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.) who says this business "may be an even more serious threat to peace than nuclear proliferation."

The reason, he says, is that selling military hardware abroad is only the first step in a chain. "Almost invariably, a training mission is needed and the recipient country becomes dependent on the supplier for spare parts and other ordnance," he explains.

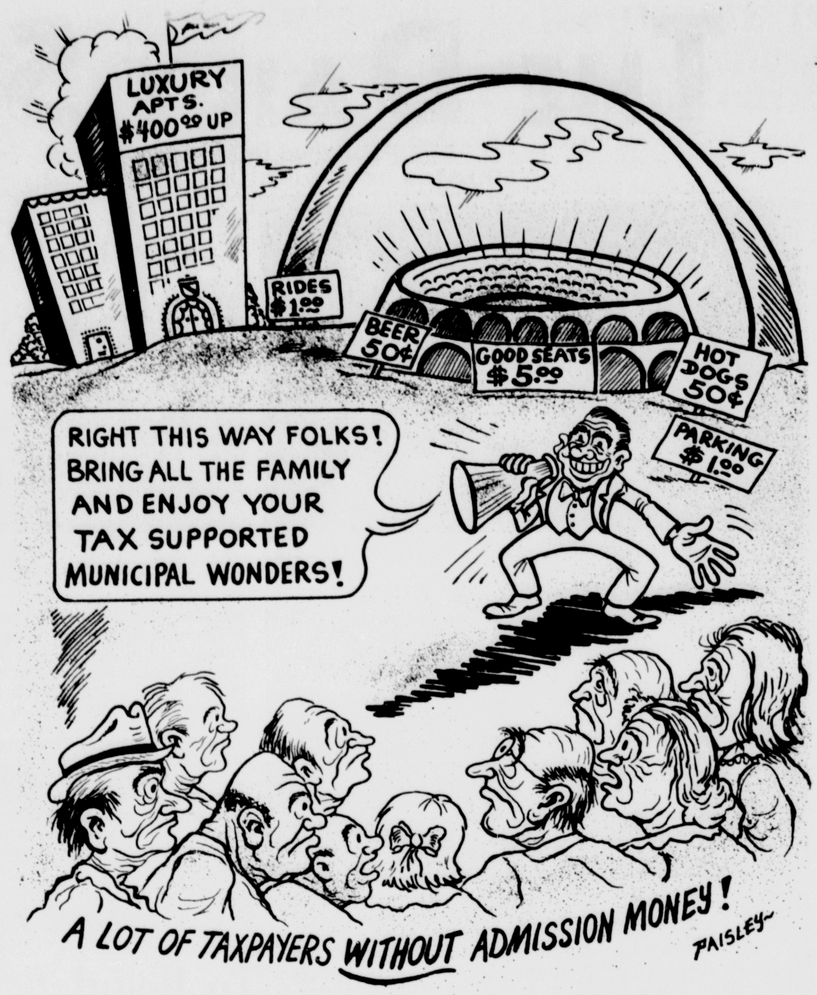

ALL of this relates to what President Eisenhower was warning about more than six years ago, for it is being carried on by the Defense Department and the State Department without checks by Congress. It is the fact that these departments, and sometimes their hirelings, make the decisions as to who will get United States arms, what kind and how many, that is causing concern in Congress.

It is an extension of the usurpation of the powers of Congress by the executive branch of Federal Government of which Senator J. William Fullbright (D-Ark.) was warning again just last week.

It results in committing the United States to situations on which Congress constitutionally is supposed to have the final say and make Congress only a rubber stamp for executive decisions on foreign affairs.

Senator Fulbright has said he has "a feeling -- only a feeling, not yet a conviction, that constitutional change is in the making" to restore to Congress what it has unwittingly surrendered. If the Senate investigations of arms sales promote that objective, they will serve a useful purpose.

The Good Old Days: The Rev. Elijah Craig, a Baptist minister and educator from Georgetown, Ky., is being honored as the founder of the bourbon whisky industry in 1789. The good preacher charged the same for a gallon of his bourbon as he did for a bushel of corn meal- 25 cents.

Opportunity: If your daughter is looking for a career, don't let her overlook her typewriter. Some two million women now hold secretarial positions, and the U.S. Department of Labor estimates business will need another two million over the next 10 years.

Highway safety tip: A clean blackboard eraser carried in the glove compartment of your car makes a handy gadget. for cleaning fogged windows, says John Whyte, famed Manhattan model.

History lesson: Can you name the first U.S. coin to bear the likeness of a living president? It was the 1926 Sesquicentennial Commemorative Half Dollar, which had the Liberty Bell on one side and the heads of George Washington and Calvin Coolidge on the other.

Worth remembering: "We need not worry so much about what man descends from- it's what he descends to that shames the human race."

The price of victory: In Massachusetts you can be fined up to $200 for tearing down a football goal post.

Folklore: Witches traditionally hold Sabbaths four times a year at which Satan appears in the form of a goat. If a girl sleeps with a piece of wedding cake under her pillow she'll dream of her future husband. Step on an ant, and you'll bring on a rain. Actresses believe that knitting on stage will bring bad luck.

More than 6,000 school busses will be inspected by the end of the month in the annual school bus safety inspection conducted by the state department of education and the Missouri highway patrol. All safety requirements of the law and the equipment safety rulles promulgated by the education department are checked.

The inspections are conducted in each county of the state in a joint cooperative effort of the state departments and city and county school officials.

Kenneth Kirchner, assistant commissioner of the state department of education and director of the committee on pupil transportation, pointed out the importance of the annual inspections. "Almost 400,000 boys and girls ride in these buses in Missouri each school day and a total of approximately 55 million miles are logged each school year," he said.

Col. E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, Superintendent of the Patrol, said, "The State of Missouri is seriously concerned with the safety of our young people. We must do everything possible to protect them." He pointed out that after Jan. 1, 1969, when the motor vehicle inspection law becomes effective, school buses will be required to undergo an annual mechanical inspection at official stations during the Aug. or prior to operating the vehicles during the school year.

Three young women -- an English girl, an American girl, and a French girl -- were once asked what they would do if they were suddenly marooned on an island with a battalion of soldiers. "I'd kill myself," cried the English girl. The American girl said, "I'd go to the Commanding Officer and ask for protection." The French girl replied, "I understand the question, but what is the problem?"

H.L. Hunt Says

RUSSIAN SUPPORT FOR NORTH VIETNAM

There has been much speculation recently about the growing possibilities of a 'detente' between the United States and the Soviet Union. Optimists in this matter point to the cordiality of the recent Johnson-Kosygin meeting, the restraint exercised by the Soviet Union in the mideast crisis, and a generally friendly attitude on the part of Communist leaders.

More knowledgeable observers, however, point out that in each of these instances, the Soviet had more to gain than to lose by avoiding a hostile attitude. But when Russia can avoid outward trouble with the U.S. and at the same time undermine our country's strength, it wastes no time in doing so.

A case in point is the rapid growth of Russian arms shipments to North Vietnam, for use against American soldiers. In February, Communist party boss Leonard Brezhnev threatened to appreciably increase Soviet aid to North Vietnam, and he has done so. Since February, arms shipments from Moscow to Hanoi have tripled.

Among the weapons being sent are ground - to - ground rockets with ranges from six to thirty miles and 140mm and 200mm rockets and launchers. Estimates are that in a three-month period, these weapons were responsible for a thousand American deaths and injuries.

It should be obvious to this country's leaders that there is a serious discrepance between outward protestations by the Soviet leaders of friendliness towards the United States and a desire to improve relations, and the actions of the Communists in aiding our enemy in the Vietnamese war.

Until Russian weapons are no longer killing American servicemen, Russian avowals of friendship must have a very hollow ring. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

THE FUTURE WITH "WALTER"

Europe's Labor Leaders Believe Reuther Will Demand Seats On Corporate Boards of Directors For U.S. Union Chiefs.

(Where is Walter Reuther running? The Ford strike -- obviously and methodically planned, as insiders knew for more than a year -- merely is a skirmish in the 60-year-old auto chief's final conflict with American industry. What does Reuther really want on this front?

For two weeks I have been talking with the men who actually know him best. They are the Laborite Prime Ministers and powerful Social Democratic union leaders of Britain, Scandinavia and Western Europe. With them the embattled Detroiter talks more frequently, and frankly than with others even in his own massive union. With them he talks of building a world community and global unionism. With them he has sat in discussions, sometimes lasting two and three days, of almost continuous conversation. So they know him best.

They understand and sympathize with Reuther's assault on management, his assuming the right to demand a voice in this management, his ever piercing attacks on the salaries paid corporation executives and dividends distributed to stockholders.

My final conversation in Europe led me to the leader of the powerful German labor movement. In this concluding dispatch from the continent I believe that Reuther's aims on the exploding labor - management front are fully reflected in the words of the President of the German unions -- the movement with which Reuther is closest.)

Dusseldorf, Germany: -- Some miles down the road from the "valley" in which they dug up the bones of the first Neanderthal man, lives a chap who is the synthesis of contemporary civilization. After two hours with this urbane and eloquent fellow over coffee with "shlag" and Cointreau on his veranda, I believe I read him right when I report he believes that Walter Reuther and other auto union chiefs should sit on the board of directors of Ford and General Motors. This would be the Germany way.

It is the way of "Co - determination" and "Works Councils" which virtually every German employer must deal with and heed in virtually all shops, factories and enterprises.

Ours was a serious, albeit bantering, conversation worth reporting since my host was Ludwig Rosenberg, President of the Deutscher Gewerkschaftsbund (DGB), the German Trade Union Federation For the Area of the Federal Republic and Berlin.

Not only is Herr Rosenberg leader of 7 million workers, but he is the labor movement's representative on the board of directors of the giant Thyssen steel works. His colleague, Otto Brenner, an intimate of Walter Reuther, represents labor on the boards of Krupp and Volkswagen. Brenner, who is learning from Reuther -- as Reuther is learning about co-determination from Brenner -- is head of the world's largest union, the 2-million - member German Metal Workers Organization.

It has been the law since May, 1951, that the labor movement has the right to sit on the board of some companies. The unions won that right after threatening a massive national strike. The then comparatively new chancellor, Conrad Adenauer, interceded in their behalf and they got the law putting them on the boards of all coal mining, steelmaking and iron mongering corporations.

This they called co-determination. In 1956 the law was amended and finally the Works Council law gave labor the right to sit on all public (stock) companies employing more than 1,000 persons. All this, without buying a single share.

At the moment the German Labor Movement (DGB) can appoint one third of the board of directors of all firms falling into this category. (They don't call them boards of directors, but boards of shareholders.) The unions also have the right to name one of their people to the board of management which controls the actual direction of the corporation.

The union leaders are paid for their work on the board of directors -- but have imposed on themselves an unwritten law which limits them to two boards each. Half their income from this participation is given to an educational fund.

And the labor leaders don't just sit and listen. They go over the company books -- "otherwise how could we know how much to seek in wage increases or whether to hold the line," says Mr. Rosenberg.

The union chiefs also vote on capital investment, declaration of dividends, pace of production, changes of models, marketing techniques, selection of products to be manufactured, utilization and expansion of productive capacity and even the increase in prices.

It might interest Walter Reuther that his good friend Otto Brenner, militantly left of center here on foreign policy, once voted for such a price increase on autos. This came when the Volkswagen corporation, on whose board he sits, needed money. On the theory that you can't milk a dead cow, Brenner joined his capitalist co-directors in voting for a price increase on "the people's car."

The labor men also vote on "the financial situation, the handling of orders, the size of stocks, the amount of credits, running expenses, profit and loss development and economic and production risks."

"We are not all that tough," said Rosenberg in reaction to my readiness to duel with him. "Once one corporation on which I sit faced a situation in which we were faced by the union's demand for more money, which we did not have, and the company needed to issue a new batch of shares for capital investment. So we voted to reject the wage demands and instead to vote dividends on our outstanding stock so we could sell to the public the new shares as a good investment. I later spent four hours at a meeting of over 3,000 union members explaining."

I observed that in the U.S. he might not have gotten out of the hall. But I added, management is management and labor should not impinge on it. His voice rose in competition with an overhead jet.

"Why should we not be on the board of management," asked Rosenberg, "If Krupp went bankrupt, many cities would suffer, big banks would falter. Tens of thousands of workers would be jobless. Hundreds of dependent companies would suffer or go down. We are all involved. This affects the entire nation.

"We are good managers. We run the fourth largest bank in Germany, Bank Fur Gemeinwirtschaft, with assets of $1.25 billion. We operate the biggest construction company in our country. So we feel that we can manage as well as management. Just because it is someone else's money is no reason for their having a sole voice in the policies of massive corporations such as Thyssen here or Bethlehem in your country."

Rosenberg chuckled and observed it might come to that in the U.S. And why not? It's better than socialization.

And so I left to drive back to Bonn, past the Neanderthal man's original happy hunting grounds. Life was so simple then.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- As the world conference on smoking and health opens today (Sept. 11) Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., a cigar smoker, plans to raise cain with the big cigaret companies and the big TV broadcasters for their refusal to label cigaret packages with nicotine content.

Magnuson, who is chairman of the senate commerce committee, has found that two cigaret companies, Stephano Brothers, and Lorillard, manufacture "Marvel" and "True" respectively, in which the nicotine content is low. However, Magnuson has also found that Reynolds and American tobacco products -- Pall Mall, Winston, Camel -- are high in tar and nicotine. At present these latter two companies enjoy a major portion of the market and don't want to risk losing it by any requirement that tar and nicotine content be printed on the cigaret package.

The National Association of Broadcasters supports the tobacco majors. Cigaret advertising constitutes a $300,000,000 chunk of radio and TV advertising. Its executives are opposed to any differentiation as between high and low nicotine cigarets.

Another potent figure bucking any labeling of nicotine and tar content is ex-governor Robert Meyner of New Jersey, who is now Czar of the tobacco industry. Bob was a good governor of New Jersey and is also good at protecting his tobacco clients, regardless of the public health. He has been adamant against any labeling of nicotine and tar content.

Sen. Magnuson, however, is in a position to introduce laws requiring this health safeguard. He plans to hold hearings and move to this end.

Note -- one interesting point sure to be raised with the airlines is why they distribute free cigarets to passengers; also, why they don't segregate smokers from non - smoking passengers as do railroads and buses.

CONGRESSIONAL ETHICS

It's been nine months since Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe - Trotter, was kicked out of congress for globe-trotting too freely on other people's credit cards. Finally the house ethics committee, under conscientious veteran Mel Price, D-Ill., has been getting down to the problem of setting up a code of ethics to prevent similar conduct by other congressmen.

Committee members didn't like it at all, however, when Rep. Ogden Reid of New York, an impatient Republican, issued a press statement declaring the American people had lost confidence in congress. His fellow Republican, Rep. Charley Halleck of Indiana, immediately jumped all over Reid at an ethics committee hearing. Halleck is sometimes called "two Cadillac Charley' because of his ability to get Cadillacs during the scarce war period.

"I just don't think it's true that the country has lost confidence in congress," Halleck exploded.

Rep. Reid, who once served as editor of the New York Herald Tribune and as U.S. Ambassador to Israel, struck to his guns.

"I think there is no question but what there has been a loss of confidence in the integrity of congress," he replied. "If you look at press accounts or what the average fellow on the street says, there has been a concern about the Adam Clayton Powell case, about Senator Dodd."

"We are concerned with those too," replied Halleck, "but where do you go from there? The people I have talked to, Ogden, don't conclude from that that we are all of that stripe. I must say, I am sorry you put that flat statement in."

"If congress doesn't act with greater dispatch than we have the last few years on this matter," insisted Reid, "I don't think that public confidence is going to be enhanced."

A BUNCH OF BUMS

Rep. Les Arends, R-Ill., sided with Halleck. "The articles we see in the paper leave the impression we are a bunch of bums, like this one by a Washington Post columnist that there is nothing but drunkenness going on up here on the hill," he said. "This is why they think we are a bunch of bums. I don't believe that people as a whole have lost their sense of fairness in criticizing the congress."

"I don't think they have, either," replied Reid, "but I do think that the remedy lies in sound action by the committee. I think the area where I would lean the hardest would be on the disclosure of sources of income. I think the public is entitled to know the basic area of sources of income."

Rep. Watkins Abbitt, D-Va. -- "Do you think that this release (Reid's news statement), which will undoubtedly get widespread coverage, will add to the growing concern of the people?"

Reid -- "I think that the only thing that will add to the concern, basically, is if the congress does not take some reasonable action -- hopefully this year. I am just saying that many Americans have some doubts. I think that the point is for us to take some action and remove any concern that may exist."

Chairman Mel Price -- "We all agree with you on that. We want to remove any concern."

Halleck -- "We will not remove all of it, not in the minds of some of the columnists."

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

FADING U. S. LAW

The federal authorities, from the President and Attorney General on down, and including the federal courts, are handling H. Rap Brown with kid gloves. This insolent rabble-rouser, who openly threatens murder and incites to arson, is allowed to say and do almost anything he pleases.

He and his followers are permitted to shout and yell in court. Before U. S. District Judge Thomas Murphy for some strange reason reduced Brown's ball from $25,000 to $15,000, the Brown claque in the courtroom interrupted repeatedly with shouts of "Black Power!" The room should have been cleared.

Let us suppose that members of the John Birch Society or the American Nazis or the Ku Klux Klan were to attempt to take over any courtroom in this country. They would be promptly slapped down. If they set fire to dozens of blocks in a large city and began looting, they would be arrested. If they resisted arrest, they would be overpowered, and perhaps shot.

But recent mobs have been permitted to run wild ir our cities, looting and burning. True, they are large mobs -- far more numerous than could be mustered by the John Birchers or the KKK. But the United States Government, its armed forces and its courts, are either in control of this country or they aren't. Apparently, they aren't.

The U. S. Supreme Court is among those bearing the heaviest share of responsibility for the prevailing lack of law and order. President Johnson is another who has shown a great lack of force in putting down the riots. Attorney General Ramsey Clark, probably the weakest incumbent of his office in modern times, is seriously culpable.

Their attitude has carried over into the lower federal courts. Why, for example, should Rap Brown's bail have been reduced from $25,000 to $15,000? True, the offense for which Brown was arrested was carrying a rifle when under indictment. This, under normal circumstances, would not have called for bail of $25,000.

But Brown is no ordinary defendant. When arrested with the gun, he was under indictment in inciting a mob in Cambridge, Md., to burn that town. He has been inciting other mobs to loot, burn and murder.

In the face of these facts, the federal district court in New York reduces his bail! He will now embark on a nationwide speaking tour.

On that tour, we may be sure, he will again exhort his audiences to put cities to the torch, to shoot various officials, take over the government and otherwise promote anarchy and revolution.

George Mason and Thomas Jefferson believed deeply in free speech, but it is greatly to be doubted if they would tolerate such incendiary, murderous and seditious appeals as we are hearing daily from Rap Brown. There are limits to all things. Brown passed those limits long ago.

IKE'S 1961 WARNING RECALLED

On Jan. 17, 1961, President Dwight D. Eisenhower made his last speech to the nation from the White House.

In that speech he noted that as a result of World War II the United States for the first time had developed an armaments industry of vast proportions. The nation also had developed a defense establishment involving 3.5 million mea and women.

"This conjunction of an immense military establishment and a large arms industry is new in the American experience," he said. ". . . We recognize the imperative need for this development. Yet we must not fail to comprehend its grave implications . . .

"In the councils of government, we must guard against the acquisition of unwarranted influence, whether sought or unsought, by the military-industrial complex. The potential for the disastrous rise of misplaced power exists and will persist.

". . . Only an alert and knowledgeable citizenry can compel the proper meshing of the huge industrial and military machinery of defense with our peaceful methods and goals, so that security and liberty may prosper together. . ."

THE significance of President Eisenhower's words escaped most observers at the time. It caused passing comment, little more.

But now the real significance is coming through clearly.

It is coming in revelation of some of the testimony given recently before the Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee which has been investigating arms sales by the United States to foreign countries.

That testimony has brought out that such arms sales have increased from about 300 million dollars a year in 1961 (when President Eisenhower was speaking) to more than 1,700 million dollars last year.

It has become a big business, run by the Pentagon with a "deputy assistant secretary of defense for international logistics negotiations" serving as the nation's full-time salesman for weapons overseas.

How big this business has become is indicated in the statement by Defense Secretary Robert McNamara in defense of the program. In the 1960-70 decade, he said, it will mean 1.4 million man years of employment and more than a billion dollars in profits for United States industry. Business Week magazine as early as last December noted that the chief beneficiaries of the arms-for-sale business were such corporations as General Dynamics, Lockhead Aircraft and McDonnell of St. Louis.

Defender of the sales say that if the United States did not supply the arms the buyers would turn to Russia or other suppliers. But the fact remains that while the United States is not alone among the suppliers, none matches the volume of exports of this nation.

Henry J. Kuss Jr., the Pentagon's arms salesman, boasts that the United States leads in this race because "no other nation can touch us in over-all technological know-how, quality, price, delivery time, follow-up logistical support and credit terms."

But it is exactly these facts that have caused concern to such men as Senator Eugene J. McCarthy (D-Minn.) who says this business "may be an even more serious threat to peace than nuclear proliferation."

The reason, he says, is that selling military hardware abroad is only the first step in a chain. "Almost invariably, a training mission is needed and the recipient country becomes dependent on the supplier for spare parts and other ordnance," he explains.

ALL of this relates to what President Eisenhower was warning about more than six years ago, for it is being carried on by the Defense Department and the State Department without checks by Congress. It is the fact that these departments, and sometimes their hirelings, make the decisions as to who will get United States arms, what kind and how many, that is causing concern in Congress.

It is an extension of the usurpation of the powers of Congress by the executive branch of Federal Government of which Senator J. William Fullbright (D-Ark.) was warning again just last week.

It results in committing the United States to situations on which Congress constitutionally is supposed to have the final say and make Congress only a rubber stamp for executive decisions on foreign affairs.

Senator Fulbright has said he has "a feeling -- only a feeling, not yet a conviction, that constitutional change is in the making" to restore to Congress what it has unwittingly surrendered. If the Senate investigations of arms sales promote that objective, they will serve a useful purpose.

More than 6,000 school busses will be inspected by the end of the month in the annual school bus safety inspection conducted by the state department of education and the Missouri highway patrol. The inspections are conducted in each county of the state in a joint cooperative effort of the state departments and city and county school officials.

Kenneth Kirchner, assistant commissioner of the state department of education and director of the committee on pupil transportation, pointed out the importance of the annual inspections. "Almost 400,000 boys and girls ride in these buses in Missouri each school day and a total of approximately 55 million miles are logged each school year," he said.

WASHINGTON -- As the world conference on smoking and health opens today (Sept. 11) Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., a cigar smoker, plans to raise cain with the big cigaret companies and the big TV broadcasters for their refusal to label cigaret packages with nicotine content.

Magnuson, who is chairman of the senate commerce committee, has found that two cigaret companies, Stephano Brothers, and Lorillard, manufacture "Marvel" and "True" respectively, in which the nicotine content is low. However, Magnuson has also found that Reynolds and American tobacco products -- Pall Mall, Winston, Camel -- are high in tar and nicotine. At present these latter two companies enjoy a major portion of the market and don't want to risk losing it by any requirement that tar and nicotine content be printed on the cigaret package.

The National Association of Broadcasters supports the tobacco majors. Cigaret advertising constitutes a $300,000,000 chunk of radio and TV advertising. Its executives are opposed to any differentiation as between high and low nicotine cigarets.

Another potent figure bucking any labeling of nicotine and tar content is ex-governor Robert Meyner of New Jersey, who is now Czar of the tobacco industry. Bob was a good governor of New Jersey and is also good at protecting his tobacco clients, regardless of the public health. He has been adamant against any labeling of nicotine and tar content.

Sen. Magnuson, however, is in a position to introduce laws requiring this health safeguard. He plans to hold hearings and move to this end.

Note -- one interesting point sure to be raised with the airlines is why they distribute free cigarets to passengers; also, why they don't segregate smokers from non-smoking passengers as do railroads and buses.

CONGRESSIONAL ETHICS

It's been nine months since Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the Harlem Globe-Trotter, was kicked out of congress for globe-trotting too freely on other people's credit cards. Finally the house ethics committee, under conscientious veteran Mel Price, D-Ill., has been getting down to the problem of setting up a code of ethics to prevent similar conduct by other congressmen.

Committee members didn't like it at all, however, when Rep. Ogden Reid of New York, an impatient Republican, issued a press statement declaring the American people had lost confidence in congress. His fellow Republican, Rep. Charley Helleck of Indiana, immediately jumped all over Reid at an ethics committee hearing. Halleck is sometimes called "two Cadillac Charley" because of his ability to get Cadillacs during the scarce war period.

"I just don't think it's true that the country has lost confidence in congress," Halleck exploded.

Rep. Reid, who once served as editor of the New York Herald Tribune and as U.S. Ambassador to Israel, struck to his guns.

"I think there is no question but what there has been a loss of confidence in the integrity of congress," he replied. "If you look at press accounts or what the average fellow on the street says, there has been a concern about the Adam Clayton Powell case, about Senator Dodd."

"We are concerned with those too," replied Halleck, "but where do you go from there? The people I have talked to, Ogden, don't conclude from that that we are all of that stripe. I must say, I am sorry you put that flat statement in."

"If congress doesn't act with greater dispatch than we have the last few years on this matter," insisted Reid, "I don't think that public confidence is going to be enhanced."

A BUNCH OF BUMS

Rep. Les Arends, R-Ill., sided with Halleck. "The articles we see in the paper leave the impression we are a bunch of bums, like this one by a Washington Post columnist that there is nothing but drunkenness going on up here on the hill," he said. "This is why they think we are a bunch of bums. I don't believe that people as a whole have lost their sense of fairness in criticizing the congress."

"I don't think they have, either," replied Reid, "but I do think that the remedy lies in sound action by the committee. I think the area where I would lean the hardest would be on the disclosure of sources of income. I think the public is entitled to know the basic area of sources of income."

Rep. Watkins Abbitt, D-Va. -- "Do you think that this release (Reid's news statement), which will undoubtedly get widespread coverage, will add to the growing concern of the people?"

Reid -- "I think that the only thing that will add to the concern, basically, is if the congress does not take some reasonable action -- hopefully this year. I am just saying that many Americans have some doubts. I think that the point is for us to take some action and remove any concern that may exist."

Chairman Mel Price -- "We all agree with you on that. We want to remove any concern."

Halleck -- "We will not remove all of it, not in the minds of some of the columnists."

H.L. Hunt Says

RUSSIAN SUPPORT FOR NORTH VIETNAM

There has been much speculation recently about the growing possibilities of a 'detente' between the United States and the Soviet Union. Optimists in this matter point to the cordiality of the recent Johnson-Kosygin meeting, the restraint exercised by the Soviet Union in the mideast crisis, and a generally friendly attitude on the part of Communist leaders.

More knowledgeable observers, however, point out that in each of these instances, the Soviet had more to gain than to lose by avoiding a hostile attitude. But when Russia can avoid outward trouble with the U.S. and at the same time undermine our country's strength, it wastes no time in doing so.

A case in point is the rapid growth of Russian arms shipments to North Vietnam, for use against American soldiers. In February, Communist party boss Leonard Brezhnev threatened to appreciably increase Soviet aid to North Vietnam, and he has done so. Since February, arms shipments from Moscow to Hanoi have tripled.

Among the weapons being sent are ground-to-ground rockets with ranges from six to thirty miles and 140mm and 200mm rockets and launchers. Estimates are that in a three-month period, these weapons were responsible for a thousand American deaths and injuries.

It should be obvious to this country's leaders that there is a serious discrepance between outward protestations by the Soviet leaders of friendliness towards the United States and a desire to improve relations, and the actions of the Communists in aiding our enemy in the Vietnamese war.

Until Russian weapons are no longer killing American servicemen, Russian avowals of friendship must have a very hollow ring. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

THE FUTURE WITH "WALTER"

Europe's Labor Leaders Believe Reuther Will Demand Seats On Corporate Boards of Directors For U.S. Union Chiefs.

(Where is Walter Reuther running? The Ford strike -- obviously and methodically planned, as insiders knew for more than a year -- merely is a skirmish in the 60-year-old auto chief's final conflict with American industry. What does Reuther really want on this front?

For two weeks I have been talking with the men who actually know him best. They are the Laborite Prime Ministers and powerful Social Democratic union leaders of Britain, Scandinavia and Western Europe. With them the embattled Detroiter talks more frequently, and frankly than with others even in his own massive union. With them he talks of building a world community and global unionism. With them he has sat in discussions, sometimes lasting two and three days, of almost continuous conversation. So they know him best.

They understand and sympathize with Reuther's assault on management, his assuming the right to demand a voice in this management, his ever piercing attacks on the salaries paid corporation executives and dividends distributed to stockholders.

My final conversation in Europe led me to the leader of the powerful German labor movement. In this concluding dispatch from the continent I believe that Reuther's aims on the exploding labor - management front are fully reflected in the words of the President of the German unions -- the movement with which Reuther is closest.)

Dusseldorf, Germany: -- Some miles down the road from the "valley" in which they dug up the bones of the first Neanderthal man, lives a chap who is the synthesis of contemporary civilization. After two hours with this urbane and eloquent fellow over coffee with "shlag" and Cointreau on his veranda, I believe I read him right when I report he believes that Walter Reuther and other auto union chiefs should sit on the board of directors of Ford and General Motors. This would be the Germany way.

It is the way of "Co-determination" and "Works Councils" which virtually every German employer must deal with and heed in virtually all shops, factories and enterprises.

Ours was a serious, albeit bantering, conversation worth reporting since my host was Ludwig Rosenberg, President of the Deutscher Gewerkschaftsbund (DGB), the German Trade Union Federation For the Area of the Federal Republic and Berlin.

Not only is Herr Rosenberg leader of 7 million workers, but he is the labor movement's representative on the board of directors of the giant Thyssen steel works. His colleague, Otto Brenner, an intimate of Walter Reuther, represents labor on the boards of Krupp and Volkswagen. Brenner, who is learning from Reuther -- as Reuther is learning about co-determination from Brenner -- is head of the world's largest union, the 2-million-member German Metal Workers Organization.

It has been the law since May, 1951, that the labor movement has the right to sit on the board of some companies. The unions won that right after threatening a massive national strike. The then comparatively new chancellor, Conrad Adenauer, interceded in their behalf and they got the law putting them on the boards of all coal mining, steelmaking and iron mongering corporations.

This they called co-determination. In 1956 the law was amended and finally the Works Council law gave labor the right to sit on all public (stock) companies employing more than 1,000 persons. All this, without buying a single share.

At the moment the German Labor Movement (DGB) can appoint one third of the board of directors of all firms falling into this category. (They don't call them boards of directors, but boards of shareholders.) The unions also have the right to name one of their people to the board of management which controls the actual direction of the corporation.

The union leaders are paid for their work on the board of directors -- but have imposed on themselves an unwritten law which limits them to two boards each. Half their income from this participation is given to an educational fund.

And the labor leaders don't just sit and listen. They go over the company books -- "otherwise how could we know how much to seek in wage increases or whether to hold the line," says Mr. Rosenberg.

The union chiefs also vote on capital investment, declaration of dividends, pace of production, changes of models, marketing techniques, selection of products to be manufactured, utilization and expansion of productive capacity and even the increase in prices.

It might interest Walter Reuther that his good friend Otto Brenner, militantly left of center here on foreign policy, once voted for such a price increase on autos. This came when the Volkswagen corporation, on whose board he sits, needed money. On the theory that you can't milk a dead cow, Brenner joined his capitalist co-directors in voting for a price increase on "the people's car."

The labor men also vote on "the financial situation, the handling of orders, the size of stocks, the amount of credits, running expenses, profit and loss development and economic and production risks."

"We are not all that tough," said Rosenberg in reaction to my readiness to duel with him. "Once one corporation on which I sit faced a situation in which we were faced by the union's demand for more money, which we did not have, and the company needed to issue a new batch of shares for capital investment. So we voted to reject the wage demands and instead to vote dividends on our outstanding stock so we could sell to the public the new shares as a good investment. I later spent four hours at a meeting of over 3,000 union members explaining."

I observed that in the U.S. he might not have gotten out of the hall. But I added, management is management and labor should not impinge on it. His voice rose in competition with an overhead jet.

"Why should we not be on the board of management," asked Rosenberg, "If Krupp went bankrupt, many cities would suffer, big banks would falter. Tens of thousands of workers would be jobless. Hundreds of dependent companies would suffer or go down. We are all involved. This affects the entire nation.

"We are good managers. We run the fourth largest bank in Germany, Bank Fur Gemeinwirtschaft, with assets of $1.25 billion. We operate the biggest construction company in our country. So we feel that we can manage as well as management. Just because it is someone else's money is no reason for their having a sole voice in the policies of massive corporations such as Thyssen here or Bethlehem in your country."

Rosenberg chuckled and observed it might come to that in the U.S. And why not? It's better than socialization.

And so I left to drive back to Bonn, past the Neanderthal man's original happy hunting grounds. Life was so simple then.

Horlen Twists Tigers Tail With No Hitter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Joel Horlen twisted the Tigers' tail and the Chicago White Sox never let go of the poor beast.

Horlen capped a weekend of flambuoyance for Chicago and Detroit by pitching a no-hitter and beating the Tigers 6-0 in the first game of a Sunday double-header. The White Sox completed the sweep with three pitchers sharing the five-hit 4-0 nightcap victory.

The two victories moved Chicago into a third place tie with the Tigers, who only 24 hours earlier held on to a piece of the American League lead by rallying for seven runs in the ninth inning and a 7-3 victory over the Sox. The late-inning heroics was tough to top but Horlen did.

The quietly efficient Minnesota Twins, meanwhile, remained in first place with a 4-2 victory over Baltimore, and Boston clung to second place by beating New York 9-1. The Red Sox are one-half game behind Minnesota and Chicago and Detroit both stand 1½ games off the pace.

In other American League games Sunday, Washington rallied for three ninth inning runs and a 3-2 victory over California and Cleveland split a double-header with Kansas City, winning 1-0 before losing 5-2.

"I knew the importance of this game," said Horlen after his masterpiece. "If we lose this one, we're really down mentally. Especially after yesterday. We were the deadest I've seen us all year."

So the 30-year-old right-hander methodically went about reviving the corpse. He allowed only two base runners, one on an error, the other on a hit batsman.

The White Sox gave him a quick five-run edge in the first inning with Wayne Causey's two-run triple the key blow. It was Causey who threw out Jerry Lumpe in the ninth inning for Horlen's closest call.

Lumpe lashed the ball through the box and Causey went behind second base to throw him out. "I just knew I had to get the ball," Causey said later. "I thought after that maybe I should have straightened before throwing off balance. I thought the ball got there just as his foot was going down on the base."

Now, with Horlen's no-hitter to think about instead of Saturday's ninth inning nightmare, the Sox went about completing the sweep. Francisco Carlos, the 26-year-old rookie, won it with Hoyt Wilhelm and Bobby Locker finished up.

Singles by Don Buford and rookie Bill Voss set up a two-run first inning with one run scoring on a wild - pitch third strike and the other on Pete Ward's sacrifice fly.

Chicago added two more in the eighth on run-scoring singles by Charlie Bradford and Ward.

Dave Boswell pitched a five-hitter for the Twins, who scored the tie-breaking run against Baltimore on a seventh inning error by the usually sure-handed Brooks Robinson.

Zoilo Versalles, who had opened the inning with a double, was on third with two out when Robinson booted Harmon Killebrew's ground ball. Rich Reese's pinch double, following a single by Bob Allison and an error by Luis Aparicio, drive in another run in the eighth.

Hot-hitting Tony Oliva drove in Minnesota's first two runs and the Orioles bunched three of their hits for both their runs off Boswell, 13-10, in the fourth.

Gary Bell pitched a four-hitter and Boston bombed the Yankees with 13 hits to keep pace with the Twins.

George Scott and Mike Andrews each slugged a pair of doubles, Ken Harrelson had a home run and a single and Mike Ryan a bases - loaded triple to lead the Boston attack.

The defeat officially eliminated the Yankees from pennant contention.

Broncos Flattened

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Anybody want a slightly used slipper? Cheap? The one the Denver Broncos have been wearing for the last month suddenly doesn't fit so well any more.

The Cinderella story the Broncos, doormats of the American Football League last season, had been re-enacting for the last four weeks came to an unscheduled end Sunday as Denver was decimated by the Oakland Raiders 51-0.

The Broncos lost their first exhibition game, but then went on to slash through four foes, including National Football League opponents Detroit and Minnesota as well as these very same Raiders. In their regular season opener against Boston last week, the Broncos won again.

What happened between last week and this remains a question for Coach Lou Saban to struggle with in the coming days.

"They just kicked the stuffing out of us," Saban said. "What else can you say?"

In another AFL game Sunday, Buffalo beat New York 20-17 and, in an NFL exhibition, Cleveland pounded Minnesota 42-14.

On Saturday, Kansas City beat Houston 25-20 and San Diego took Boston 28-14 in regular season AFL games.

In NFL exhibitions Saturday, New Orleans took Atlanta 27-14, Baltimore crushed Dallas 33-7, Chicago shut out Philadelphia 14-0, Green Bay beat New York 31-14, Washington shaded Pittsburgh 16-10, and Los Angeles downed San Francisco 34-7.

The destruction of the Broncos was as complete as it was surprising. Making only two first downs, the club was held scoreless for the first time in its 77-game history and suffered its most lopsided defeat.

Quarterback Daryle Lamonica directed the Raiders to five touchdowns and George Blanda guided them to another and a field goal. Warren Powers added yet another with a 36-yard runback of a pass interception.

Buffalo pounded the Jets for a 20-point last quarter, finally winning on Mike Mercer's 43-yard field goal with four seconds left in the game. Jack Kemp threw two scoring passes to Art Powell, while the Jets had taken an early lead on passes from Joe Namath to Don Maynard.

Leroy Kelly scored the first three Cleveland touchdowns on short rushes and a 30-yard pass from Frank Ryan as the Browns rolled up a 28-0 halftime lead. Rookie Carl Ward's 85-yard touchdown return of the second-half kickoff made it 35-0 before the Vikings could finally score.

Pirates Nudge Birds, 8-7

Briles Puts Six-Game Streak On Line Against Phillies Tonight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Cardinals return to St. Louis tonight, happy to be free of the Pittsburgh Pirates who made it four out of the last five, defeating the Redbirds, 8-7, Sunday at Forbes Field.

The Pirates came from behind with four runs in the eighth to overtake St. Louis. Manny Mota's pinch single drove in the first run and Maury Wills tripled to drive in two and scored the winning run on Manny Jimenez's pinch single.

Pittsburgh got to six Cardinal pitchers for 15 hits while St. Louis collected 12 off of six Pirates hurlers.

Lou Brock, Dal Maxvill and Dave Ricketts each had two hits and Brock and Maxvill each drove in two runs.

Joe Hoerner was the loser in relief.

Pizarro was the winner in relief.

The Cards will play Philadelphia in Busch Memorial Stadium tonight with Nelson Briles on the mound for St. Louis and Chris Short for the Phillies. Briles has won six straight.

The string didn't run out on Gaylord Perry. He pulled it himself.

Perry, San Francisco's strong-armed right-hander, beat the Chicago Cubs 2-1 Sunday with a three-hitter. But his string of successive scoreless innings was broken at 40 ... just 6 1-3 innings short of Carl Hubbell's National League record.

"I'm sorry it had to happen, but I'm glad I have no one to blame but myself," said Perry, whose two-base throwing error in the seventh inning set up the Cubs' run.

The Giants' eighth victory in nine games lifted them into second place, 10½ games behind St. Louis' runaway leaders, who were beaten by Pittsburgh 8-7, and one-half game ahead of the Cincinnati Reds, who trimmed the New York Mets 5-2.

Philadelphia slammed Atlanta 10-5 and Los Angeles split a doubleheader with Houston, winning 4-1 before bowing 1-0 in 11 innings, in other NL action.

Perry, whose previous three starts had produced two shutout victories and a 16-inning scoreless stint without a decision, breezed past the Cubs until the seventh, when Ron Santo drew a leadoff walk.

The Giants pitcher then fielded Ernie Banks's tap to the mound and went to second for a force play ... only to have his throw sail into center field as Santo sped to third. Santo then scored as Bob Raudman grounded into a double play.

The error cost Perry a shot at the 34-year-old record set by Hubbell, the former Giants ace who now directs the club's farm system. But the slender fireballer can take solace in a late spurt that has boosted his season mark to 13-15 while lowering his ERA to 2.75.

Maury Wills lashed a two-run triple in the eighth inning and scored on an infield out, capping a four-run uprising that carried the Pirates past St. Louis.

Lee May cracked a two-run homer and winning pitcher Jim Maloney's RBI single climaxed a decisive two-run burst in the fifth inning, leading the Reds' attack at New York.

Tony Gonzalez collected three hit and Cookie Rojas slugged the first grand slam homer of his career as the Phillies outscored Atlanta to give Jim Bunning his 17th victory.

Jim Wynn earned Houston a split at Los Angeles and took over the league home run lead by slamming his 36th of the year in the 11th inning of th nightcap. Bo Belinsky, who pitched nine brilliant innings, and winner Dave Eilers limited the Dodgers to three hits.

The Dodgers struck for four runs in the seventh inning of the opener to overcome a 1-0 Houston lead and give rookie Bill Singer his 11th victory in 17 decisions.

Razorbacks Picked For Second In Southwest

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. -- All of this concern about Arkansas' offense in 1967 is for real. The statistics tell the story -- where fans and writers alike have turned a deaf ear to the warnings of Frank Broyles. The Razorback head coach shudders at the thought of it, but he faces a situation strangely similar to the fall of 1963 when his Porkers were picked to win the title (despite his caution) and wound up in fourth place.

TCU's 34-year-old poll of SWC writers picked Arkansas to finish second in the league this year. More than anything else it is a compliment to the coaching abilities of Broyles and his staff. The top football writers currently making their annual conference tour, however, are likely to come up with a different appraisal. What they'll see at Arkansas is an almost complete changes in personnel on a offensive unit that finished 5th in that department last year.

Not only has the 1966 Porker offensive line been riddled (six of the seven starters need to be replaced), but Arkansas will have the least experience in its offensive backfield of any team in the Southwest Conference.

Here's the evidence -- first by rushing. The top five ball carriers at each school for 1966 are listed, with returning players in capital letters. (Yardage gained in parentheses)

ARKANSAS -- DAVID DICKEY (447), Bruce Maxwell (376), Harry Jones (342), Eddie Woodlee (213) and Jon Brittenum (168). Net yardage of 1,546 for 1966, with only 447 yards returning in 1967.

BAYLOR--Richard Defee (332), PINKY PALMER (299), CHARLES WILSON (211), JOHN WESTBROOK (99), and BILLY HAYES (64). Net yardage of 1,005 for 1966, with 673 yards returning in 1967.

RICE--ROBBY SHELTON (607), L. B. BENNINGFIELD (597) LESTER LEHMAN (369), Glen Hine (95) and Chuck Latourette (77). Net yardage of 1,745 for 1966, with 1,573 returning in 1967.

SMU -- Mac White (606), MIKE RICHARDSON (357), Larry Jernigan (299), MIKE LIVINGSTON (269) and JIM HAGLE (297). Net yardage of 1,738 for 1966, with 833 yards returning for 1967.

TEXAS -- CHRIS GILBERT (1,080), BILL BRADLEY (335), LINUS BAER (211), Jim Helms (206) and Gregg Lott (81). Net yardage of 1,913 in 1966, with 1,707 returning in 1967.

TEXAS A&M -- WENDELL HOUSLEY (548), BILL SALLEE (231), BOB LONG (76), Bonnie Lindsey (65) and DAN SCHNEIDER (18). Net yardage of 938 in 1966, with 873 returning in 1967.

T C U -- ROSS MONTGOMERY (467), KENNY POST (257), NORMAN BULAICH (246), STEVE LANDON (126) and P. D. SHABAY (102). Net yardage of 1,198 in 1966, with 1,198 returning in 1967.

TEXAS TECH -- MIKE LEINERT (495), JOHN SCOVELL (280), ROGER FREEMAN (220), KENNY BAKER (208) and Jerry Lovelace (171). Net yardage of 1,374 in 1966, with 1,203 returning in 1967.

Add to these figures the yardage gained by the top two passers for each team in 1966 and yardage returning in 1967 -- and the Porkers still wind up last. The Razorbacks have 47 yards passing returning from 1966 (Gordon Norwood). Even if you include Ronny South, the starter, the Hogs wind up with only 240 yards passing from the 1965 season.

The full picture of offensive potential is revealed in the total yardage returning from these top players of 1966 (top five ball carriers and the top two passers). Here's the breakdown.

Team	1966 Figures Rush-Pass-Total			Returning in 1967
Rice	1745	1187	2932	2760

Pizarro was the winner in relief.

The Cards will play Philadelphia in Busch Memorial Stadium tonight with Nelson Briles on the mound for St. Louis and Chris Short for the Phillies. Briles has won six straight.

The string didn't run out on Gaylord Perry. He pulled it himself.

Perry, San Francisco's strong-armed right-hander, beat the Chicago Cubs 2-1 Sunday with a three-hitter. But his string of successive scoreless innings was broken at 40 ... just 6 1-3 innings short of Carl Hubbell's National League record.

"I'm sorry it had to happen, but I'm glad I have no one to blame but myself," said Perry, whose two-base throwing error in the seventh inning set up the Cubs' run.

The Giants' eighth victory in nine games lifted them into second place, 10½ games behind St. Louis' runaway leaders, who were beaten by Pittsburgh 8-7, and one-half game ahead of the Cincinnati Reds, who trimmed the New York Mets 5-2.

Philadelphia slammed Atlanta 10-5 and Los Angeles split a doubleheader with Houston, winning 4-1 before bowing 1-0 in 11 innings, in other NL action.

Perry, whose previous three starts had produced two shutout victories and a 16-inning scoreless stint without a decision, breezed past the Cubs until the seventh, when Ron Santo drew a leadoff walk.

The Giants pitcher then fielded Ernie Banks's tap to the mound and went to second for a force play ... only to have his throw sail into center field as Santo sped to third. Santo then scored as Bob Raudman grounded into a double play.

The error cost Perry a shot at the 34-year-old record set by Hubbell, the former Giants ace who now directs the club's farm system. But the slender fireballer can take solace in a late spurt that has boosted his season mark to 13-15 while lowering his ERA to 2.75.

Maury Wills lashed a two-run triple in the eighth inning and scored on an infield out, capping a four-run uprising that carried the Pirates past St. Louis.

Lee May cracked a two-run homer and winning pitcher Jim Maloney's RBI single climaxed a decisive two-run burst in the fifth inning, leading the Reds' attack at New York.

Tony Gonzalez collected three hit and Cookie Rojas slugged the first grand slam homer of his career as the Phillies outscored Atlanta to give Jim Bunning his 17th victory.

Jim Wynn earned Houston a split at Los Angeles and took over the league home run lead by slamming his 36th of the year in the 11th inning of th nightcap. Bo Belinsky, who pitched nine brilliant innings, and winner Dave Eilers limited the Dodgers to three hits.

The Dodgers struck for four runs in the seventh inning of the opener to overcome a 1-0 Houston lead and give rookie Bill Singer his 11th victory in 17 decisions.

Razorbacks Picked For Second In Southwest

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. -- All of this concern about Arkansas' offense in 1967 is for real. The statistics tell the story -- where fans and writers alike have turned a deaf ear to the warnings of Frank Broyles. The Razorback head coach shudders at the thought of it, but he faces a situation strangely similar to the fall of 1963 when his Porkers were picked to win the title (despite his caution) and wound up in fourth place.

TCU's 34-year-old poll of SWC writers picked Arkansas to finish second in the league this year. More than anything else it is a compliment to the coaching abilities of Broyles and his staff. The top football writers currently making their annual conference tour, however, are likely to come up with a different appraisal. What they'll see at Arkansas is an almost complete changes in personnel on a offensive unit that finished 5th in that department last year.

Not only has the 1966 Porker offensive line been riddled (six of the seven starters need to be replaced), but Arkansas will have the least experience in its offensive backfield of any team in the Southwest Conference.

Here's the evidence -- first by rushing. The top five ball carriers at each school for 1966 are listed, with returning players in capital letters. (Yardage gained in parentheses)

ARKANSAS -- DAVID DICKEY (447), Bruce Maxwell (376), Harry Jones (342), Eddie Woodlee (213) and Jon Brittenum (168). Net yardage of 1,546 for 1966, with only 447 yards returning in 1967.

BAYLOR--Richard Defee (332), PINKY PALMER (299), CHARLES WILSON (211), JOHN WESTBROOK (99), and BILLY HAYES (64). Net yardage of 1,005 for 1966, with 673 yards returning in 1967.

RICE--ROBBY SHELTON (607), L. B. BENNINGFIELD (597) LESTER LEHMAN (369), Glen Hine (95) and Chuck Latourette (77). Net yardage of 1,745 for 1966, with 1,573 returning in 1967.

SMU -- Mac White (606), MIKE RICHARDSON (357), Larry Jernigan (299), MIKE LIVINGSTON (269) and JIM HAGLE (297). Net yardage of 1,738 for 1966, with 833 yards returning for 1967.

TEXAS -- CHRIS GILBERT (1,080), BILL BRADLEY (335), LINUS BAER (211), Jim Helms (206) and Gregg Lott (81). Net yardage of 1,913 in 1966, with 1,707 returning in 1967.

TEXAS A&M -- WENDELL HOUSLEY (548), BILL SALLEE (231), BOB LONG (76), Bonnie Lindsey (65) and DAN SCHNEIDER (18). Net yardage of 938 in 1966, with 873 returning in 1967.

T C U -- ROSS MONTGOMERY (467), KENNY POST (257), NORMAN BULAICH (246), STEVE LANDON (126) and P. D. SHABAY (102). Net yardage of 1,198 in 1966, with 1,198 returning in 1967.

TEXAS TECH -- MIKE LEINERT (495), JOHN SCOVELL (280), ROGER FREEMAN (220), KENNY BAKER (208) and Jerry Lovelace (171). Net yardage of 1,374 in 1966, with 1,203 returning in 1967.

Add to these figures the yardage gained by the top two passers for each team in 1966 and yardage returning in 1967 -- and the Porkers still wind up last. The Razorbacks have 47 yards passing returning from 1966 (Gordon Norwood). Even if you include Ronny South, the starter, the Hogs wind up with only 240 yards passing from the 1965 season.

The full picture of offensive potential is revealed in the total yardage returning from these top players of 1966 (top five ball carriers and the top two passers). Here's the breakdown.

Team	1966 Figures Rush-Pass-Total			Returning in 1967
Rice	1745	1187	2932	2760

Romney's Reputation as Mind Changer Growing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Gale W. McGee, Wyoming Democrat, says Michigan's Gov. George Romney m7st have "the cleanest mind in America, he changes it so often." But it's when Romney himself talked of "brainwashing" that he got into trouble.

Here are some samples of how Romney says one thing at one time and something else at another, going back to 1965.

On Feb. 8 of that year he backed President Johnson's decision to launch retaliatory air strikes against North Vietnam. And a month later Romney was saying the United States should take a stronger stand.

But by Dec. 10, 1965, asked if American air strikes should be stepped up, he said this country should be cautious, "weighing every step we take." And by last May he was against heavier bombing because that would cause more problems.

On Nov. 16,1965 he said he didn't expect the war to end at the bargaining table "but only when the Viet Cong decide they'd rather till their farms than risk their lives." He had already said a negotiated settlement would be a mistake.

By May 9, 1967 he was saying the United States should encourage the South Vietnamese to negotiate with the Viet Cong. And last Aug. 16 he said anyone who thought North Vietnam could be brought to the bargaining table by just bombing wasn't thinking soundly.

In November, 1965 Romney went to Saigon with some other governors, conferred with American officials there, and came away saying "we are doing the morally right thing." The officials couldn't have given him a sunny picture because he said things might get worse before they got better.

Buton April 5, 1966 he was already questioning whether the United States had a valid reason to fight the war, on July 5 said he wasn't sure the time and place were right for a showdown, and on March 5, 1967 Romney said he was going to have to determine whether outside aggression or civil war sparked the conflict before he could pass on the "moral right" of the United States to fight in Vietnam.

And by May 24, 1967 he was saying "the biggest mistake we have made in the Vietnamese war is in getting involved."

Twice, in 1965 after a White House briefing by Johnson and other top officials for him and other governors, and in 1966 at a governors' conference, Romney generally endorsed Johnson's policy. But at the same conference he said he could not give a blanket endorsement to administration policy. On Nov. 16, 1965 the only specific point of disagreement he raised about Johnson's Vietnamese policy was in continuing aid to countries whose ships carried supplies to North Vietnam.

But later he said Johnson didn't have an "effective policy," that Johnson had made a mistake in getting involved, and called his policy "clumsy, ill-timed and poorly coordinated."

Starting as far back as Nov. 25, 1965 he was saying there was need for more information about the war and that Johnson was misleading the people by covering up mistakes. He has made repeated statements like that.

Then last week, referring to his 1965 visit to Saigon when he said this country had a "moral right" to be in Vietnam, he said he had been "brainwashed" and now thinks we had no need to get involved.

This was too much for the Detroit News, which had supported his three successful bids for the Michigan governorship. It suggested he abandon any idea he might have about the presidency, saying he lacked the ability to achieve stability in presidential politics. Last July the newspaper said Romney must be abysmally ignorant of what the realities are in Vietnam.

This wasn't all. Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, said of the "brainwashing" complaint: Romney "cannot recognize the truth when he sees it . . . I think he is blind to the truth."

The governors who went to Saigon with him then disputed his "brainwashing" charge. Romney backed away from "brainwashing" and told reporters he didn't mean the "Russian-type brainwashing,' but the "same thing you mean when you write about the credibility gap, snow jobs, and manipulation of the news."

This wasn't all. Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, said of the "brainwashing" complaint: Romney "cannot recognize the truth when he sees it . . . I think he is blind to the truth."

The governors who went to Saigon with him then disputed his "brainwashing" charge. Romney backed away from "brainwashing" and told reporters he didn't mean the "Russian-type brainwashing,' but the "same thing you mean when you write about the credibility gap, snow jobs, and manipulation of the news."

Lions Improving East Prairie Baseball Field

EAST PRAIRIE -- The East Prairie Lions Club has begun a program of improvements at the Little League baseball field in H. A. Jones Memorial Park, it has been announced.

Included are: permanent chain link fencing, permanent bleachers, new improved lighting system, dugouts, a building located within the fenced area for equipment storage, concession stand and office for a full-time paid summer supervisor, it has been reported.

Planning was initiated at the Lions Club board meeting last week called by Lions president, Bill McKinley. In addition to Lion board members, Arlen Powell, manager of the Little League games this summer, was also present.

The improvements and additions were brought before the club Tuesday night, and the club voted to undertake the project, which is a Community Betterment project.

The following committees were appointed Tuesday night: finance, L. D. Davis, James T. Bruce Jr., Van Marshall and Dale Boone.

Mr. Boone was also made chairman of the lighting committee prior to the meeting, and has already begun making inquiries as to the cost of the planned lighting system.

As fencing is to be the first improvement undertaken, Mr. McKinley appointed Carey Johnson as chairman of the fencing project, with the understanding he could draft committee members from the Lions club roster at later dates.

Initial action is for the finance committee to make contacts within the next 30 days to determine how much can be raised through donations, with the balance being obtained by the Lions club through a loan.

The total cost of an estimated $8-$10,000 cannot be raised through donations it was reported, and the Lions club while paying off the balance will not be able to pay the annual cost of operating the Little League, members added.

This cost, which has been running about $1,200 per year, will be met through the annual Little League drive for donations.

However, after the Lions club has paid off the loan for the improvements they hope to be able to assume full sponsorship of the Little League, which will include an organizational arrangement prescribed by Little League regulations.

CARL

Shivery September

Maps show Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperature, precipitation through September 30.

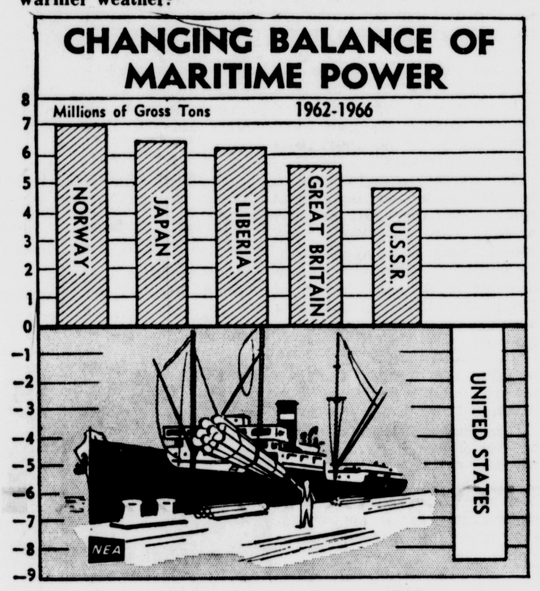

A broad coastal belt from New England to Texas and up into the southern plains should see heavier than normal precipitation. It will be drier to the north and west.

Temperatures are expected to be below normal for most of the country from the Continental Divide to the Appalachians. The mountain and far west regions can look for warmer weather.

CHANGING BALANCE OF MARITIME POWER

While other leading merchant fleets have been adding tonnage in recent years, the American total has decreased. The five leading nations account for 64.3 per cent of the 47 million gross tons added to world merchant fleets from 1962 to 1966.

FINDING THE WAY

Endure Situations? Yes! But Accept Them? No!

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What's an acceptable way of life? The ancient prophet Isaiah said that, among other things, he had been sent to "proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord." That meant justice for mankind, compassion for the suffering, liberty for the imprisoned and a new sense of godliness. This was to be proclaimed!

Our problem is that so much that we know to be wrong is still accepted. It isn't that we believe the situation to be right. We can't justify slums, lack of educational facilities, slaughter on the highway, our own personal problems of a bad temper or slovenliness. It's just that we decide that we can't do anything about these things and so, for us, they become acceptable.

Take the ugly issue of war. These have been weeks which have surrounded us with the possibility of increasing horror. We are all willing to say that war is wrong. Yet we live in a time of war psychosis when we accept war.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., asks for all-out war and too many of us applaud. To make war acceptable is to insist that the language of violence and military power are the only forms of language that can be understood. If you believe that, then diplomatic efforts such as United Nations, as well as every other form of international discussion, are cynical shams. Even those who wage war ought to insist that war is wrong. This isn't a matter of being a "hawk" or a "dove." It's just recognizing tragedy. War is the tragedy of a failure; it ought not to be baptized as "the acceptable year of the Lord."

Then there is the problem of pollution. I'm astonished at the numbers of good citizens who assume that pollution is the natural by-product of civilization and therefore there's nothing that can be done about it.

It is only because some dedicated heroes of the past decided to do something about slavery or child labor or polio or any number of such disasters that men were jolted from the mind-set of accepting the tragedy.

Marcel Quoist, the interesting French priest who jogs our consciences, writes, "Would you dare to say: 'I didn't beat my wife this week; I didn't put poison in her food . . . therefore I love her?' Then don't say, 'I did nothing to hurt my neighbor this week . . . therefore I love him. I've fulfilled the law.'

"The Lord has commanded us not only not to do evil to our neighbor (the pagans do as much) but to love our neighbors as ourselves . . .

"If you are more gifted, if you are more resourceful or virtuous than your neighbor, then you ought to help him in every possible way to become capable of helping himself. There is no end to loving others."

We may have "to put up" with all too many tragedies in these days. But to accept them is intolerable.

Mid-South Fair Plans Shaping Up

MEMPHIS -- The 111th Mid-South Fair, less than two weeks away from its Sept. 22 opening, is rapidly shaping up to be one of the greatest in the history of the Southeast's biggest exposition. "We already are assured of having our biggest and best Angus Show ever," said T. P. 'Pete' Head, General Chairman of the Livestock Show.

A record entry of prized Angus will be among about 1,200 head of cattle and 900 swine vying for the $75,000 in premiums at the Livestock Show. Judging of the livestock will start with the Friday, September 22 opening of the Fair and continue through Thursday, September 28. The Fair's nine-day run will end Saturday, September 30.

Winrock Farms of Morrilton, Ark., one of the big names in Santa Gertrudis breeding and owned by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, has entered 12 head in the Fair.

Onrushing deadlines are a way of life at this stage of pre-Fair planning and two very important ones loom. Entries close on Wednesday in the Miss Youth Personality Pageant. Young girls between the ages of 13 and 16 in the Mid-South are eligible with the winner receiving an all-expense paid weekend at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. Judging is set for 2:30 p.m. September 24 in the Youth Center. The girls will appear in street clothes of their choice and be judged on poise, personality and diction. Mrs. Henry Hanson is Chairman of the event.

Interested girls can enter by writing the Miss Youth Personality Pageant, Mid-South Fair, Box 14808, Memphis, Tenn. 38114. Sept. 17 is the deadline for submitting needlework entries and Sept. 20 for getting in the Baby Picture Contest. Taking entries for needlework and baby pictures is Mrs. Margaret R. Patty, Director of the Woman's Department, Mid-South Fair, P. O. Box 14808, Memphis, Tenn. 38114.

Clarkton Tour Set for Tuesday

CLARKTON - A tour will be made of the Clarkton research field Tuesday at 1 p.m. according to Joe Scott, field crops specialist at the Delta Center in Portageville.

The Clarkton field is where the University of Missouri conducts soils and crops research on sandy soil. This soil is heavily infested with root-knot nematode and Fusarium Wilt that is found in most of the sandy soils of the Bootheel.

Farmers, who have sandy soil on their farms, will be able to observe the performance of cotton and soybean varieties and how they compare on this type of soil.

Lime and fertilizer treatments can be observed and compared with and without irrigation.

Leaf disease studies on cotton and sugar beets are also included in the research conducted on this field. Anyone interested in crop production on sandy soil is invited to tour the field on Tuesday afternoon said Scott.

Registered under Severus (the Roman emperor) was the name of a slave who not only endured martyrdom, but in a sentence defined the Faith. Her name was Felicitas; she was a Carthaginian; she lay in prison; there she bore a child.

In her pain she screamed. The jailers asked her how, if she shrieked at that, she expected to endure death by the beasts. She said, "Now I suffer what I suffer; then Another in me will suffer for me as I suffer for him."

In that, Felicitas took her place forever among the great African doctors of the Universal Church.

Shivery September

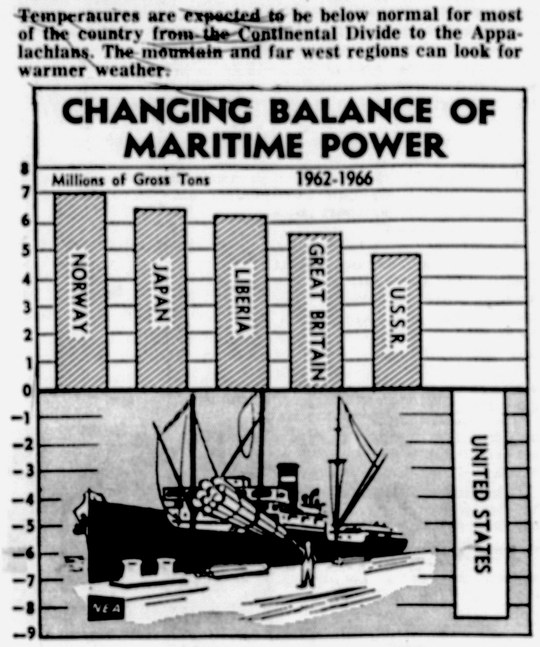

Maps show Weather Bureau's estimated forecast of average temperature, precipitation through September 30.

A broad coastal belt from New England to Texas and up into the southern plains should see heavier than normal precipitation. It will be drier to the north and west.

Temperatures are expected to be below normal for most of the country from the Continental Divide to the Appalachians. The mountain and far west regions can look for warmer weather.

While other leading merchant fleets have been adding tonnage in recent years, the American total has decreased. The five leading nations account for 64.3 per cent of the 47 million gross tons added to world merchant fleets from 1962 to 1966.

FINDING THE WAY

Endure Situations? Yes! But Accept Them? No!

By RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

What's an acceptable way of life? The ancient prophet Isaiah said that, among other things, he had been sent to "proclaim the acceptable year of the Lord." That meant justice for mankind, compassion for the suffering, liberty for the imprisoned and a new sense of godliness. This was to be proclaimed!

Our problem is that so much that we know to be wrong is still accepted. It isn't that we believe the situation to be right. We can't justify slums, lack of educational facilities, slaughter on the highway, our own personal problems of a bad temper or slovenliness. It's just that we decide that we can't do anything about these things and so, for us, they become acceptable.

Take the ugly issue of war. These have been weeks which have surrounded us with the possibility of increasing horror. We are all willing to say that war is wrong. Yet we live in a time of war psychosis when we accept war.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., asks for all-out war and too many of us applaud. To make war acceptable is to insist that the language of violence and military power are the only forms of language that can be understood. If you believe that, then diplomatic efforts such as United Nations, as well as every other form of international discussion, are cynical shams. Even those who wage war ought to insist that war is wrong. This isn't a matter of being a "hawk" or a "dove." It's just recognizing tragedy. War is the tragedy of a failure; it ought not to be baptized as "the acceptable year of the Lord."

Then there is the problem of pollution. I'm astonished at the numbers of good citizens who assume that pollution is the natural by-product of civilization and therefore there's nothing that can be done about it.

It is only because some dedicated heroes of the past decided to do something about slavery or child labor or polio or any number of such disasters that men were jolted from the mind-set of accepting the tragedy.

Marcel Quoist, the interesting French priest who jogs our consciences, writes, "Would you dare to say: 'I didn't beat my wife this week; I didn't put poison in her food . . . therefore I love her?' Then don't say, 'I did nothing to hurt my neighbor this week . . . therefore I love him. I've fulfilled the law.'

"The Lord has commanded us not only not to do evil to our neighbor (the pagans do as much) but to love our neighbors as ourselves . . .

"If you are more gifted, if you are more resourceful or virtuous than your neighbor, then you ought to help him in every possible way to become capable of helping himself. There is no end to loving others."

We may have "to put up" with all too many tragedies in these days. But to accept them is intolerable.

Mid-South Fair Plans Shaping Up

MEMPHIS -- The 111th Mid-South Fair, less than two weeks away from its Sept. 22 opening, is rapidly shaping up to be one of the greatest in the history of the Southeast's biggest exposition.

"We already are assured of having our biggest and best Angus Show ever," said T. P. 'Pete' Head, General Chairman of the Livestock Show.

A record entry of prized Angus will be among about 1,200 head of cattle and 900 swine vying for the $75,000 in premiums at the Livestock Show. Judging of the livestock will start with the Friday, September 22 opening of the Fair and continue through Thursday, September 28. The Fair's nine-day run will end Saturday, September 30.

Winrock Farms of Morrilton, Ark., one of the big names in Santa Gertrudis breeding and owned by Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, has entered 12 head in the Fair.

Onrushing deadlines are a way of life at this stage of pre-Fair planning and two very important ones loom. Entries close on Wednesday in the Miss Youth Personality Pageant. Young girls between the ages of 13 and 16 in the Mid-South are eligible with the winner receiving an all-expense paid weekend at the Texas State Fair in Dallas. Judging is set for 2:30 p.m. September 24 in the Youth Center. The girls will appear in street clothes of their choice and be judged on poise, personality and diction. Mrs. Henry Hanson is Chairman of the event.

Interested girls can enter by writing the Miss Youth Personality Pageant, Mid-South Fair, Box 14808, Memphis, Tenn. 38114. Sept. 17 is the deadline for submitting needlework entries and Sept. 20 for getting in the Baby Picture Contest. Taking entries for needlework and baby pictures is Mrs. Margaret R. Patty, Director of the Woman's Department, Mid-South Fair, P. O. Box 14808, Memphis, Tenn. 38114.

Clarkton Tour Set for Tuesday

CLARKTON - A tour will be made of the Clarkton research field Tuesday at 1 p.m. according to Joe Scott, field crops specialist at the Delta Center in Portageville.

The Clarkton field is where the University of Missouri conducts soils and crops research on sandy soil. This soil is heavily infested with root-knot nematode and Fusarium Wilt that is found in most of the sandy soils of the Bootheel.

Farmers, who have sandy soil on their farms, will be able to observe the performance of cotton and soybean varieties and how they compare on this type of soil.

Lime and fertilizer treatments can be observed and compared with and without irrigation.

Leaf disease studies on cotton and sugar beets are also included in the research conducted on this field. Anyone interested in crop production on sandy soil is invited to tour the field on Tuesday afternoon said Scott.

Registered under Severus (the Roman emperor) was the name of a slave who not only endured martyrdom, but in a sentence defined the Faith. Her name was Felicitas; she was a Carthaginian; she lay in prison; there she bore a child.

In her pain she screamed. The jailers asked her how, if she shrieked at that, she expected to endure death by the beasts. She said, "Now I suffer what I suffer; then Another in me will suffer for me as I suffer for him."

In that, Felicitas took her place forever among the great African doctors of the Universal Church.

Nap in Widow's Room Brings Man to Grief

Dear Ann Landers: For many years I tried to persuade my wife to come to Europe with me. She felt she could not keep up with the pace of a guided tour and since that was the only way I would go, I decided to make the trip alone.

I was gone 21 days and had a wonderful time. There were several couples on the tour who were my age (past 60) and many interesting widows. One widow in particular was extremely pleasant and we often sat together on the planes and buses and enjoyed one another's company.

A few days before we were to leave for home she telephoned my room (this was in Paris) and said she was having trouble closing her suitcase. She asked if I would help. I said "yes" and went to her room. After I closed the suitcase, we visited a few minutes. She remarked that it had been an exhausting day and she was sleepy and wanted to take a nap. I said I was sleepy, too. She suggested I flop down on the other twin bed for awhile and I did.

We both dozed for about 40 minutes and then I left.

When I told my wife about this harmless little incident, she flew into a rage. She insisted that I had committed adultery, that no decdent woman would allow a man to sleep in her room and that no respectable man would have done such a thing.

I did not do anything wrong and my conscience is clear. My wife has been very formal ever since and I am talked out. Please give me your opinion on whether or not I am guilty of adultery. --- CONDEMNED

Dear Condemned: If all you did was take a nap in the widow's room you are not guilty of adultery. But you used very poor judgment, Dad.

The next time you are hit with a sudden attack of drowsiness, don't lie down in a widow's hotel room. Dash some cold water on your face and drag yourself to your own quarters where you belong.

Dear Ann Landers: Others have aired their pet peeves in your column. May I? When the phone rings I always drop everything and answer it as soon as possible. Sometimes I am unable to get to the phone until the fourth or fifth ring. If the caller has hung up I get terribly upset wondering if I missed something important.

It is exasperating when one runs from the attic or the basement or the garden and then picks up the receiver and hears a dial tone.

Please tell your readers about the information which is printed in the front pages of the telephone director. It says the phone will ring 10 times in the space of one minute. I believe as a matter of ordinary courtesy a caller ought to give a person 60 seconds to get to the phone. Will you kindly pass the word? --- NOBODY THERE

Dear N.T.: Here's your letter, and with it my pledge that in the future I will give the other party 10 rings before I hang up. I confess I didn't realize 10 rings was equivalent to 60 seconds. Thanks for telling me -- and millions of others.

New Shows Take TV Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) — New programs and special programs were in oversupply in a busy weekend of television network broadcasting. Viewers, even if they only wanted to sample new wares, needed fortitude, comfortable chairs and, above all, strong eyes.

Seven new programs had their premiers and two of them, ABC's "Judd for the Defense," on Friday, and NBC's "High Chapparral," on Sunday, seemed to be a cut above the season's current average.

It was undoubtedly merely coincidence, but three programs were marathons for the audience. ABC's "Africa" occupied four solid Sunday night hours, while "High Chaparral" occupied two. The live "Miss America Pageant" on NBC Saturday was, as usual, two hours long.

"Africa," certainly one of the most costly, ambitious programs undertaken by a network news department was a cram course on the land, fauna and politics of that continent. It handled the unwieldy subject by chapters— a half hour on animals; 15 minutes on anthropology and then concentrated on Nigeria alone for a while.

But it was just too much and too long. It is something that the network will be bragging about, but from the viewers standpoint it would have been better broken up into a series of four one-hour programs shown on consecutive nights.

"Miss America" this time out seemed to have prettier and more talented girls than usual and the entertainment portion of the show, sometimes painfully amateurish, had more professional polish than in other seasons.

"Off to See the Wizard" an ABC children's show along the lines of NBC's Walt Disney hour, had the misfortune of starting with a rerun of "Clarence the Cross-Eyed Lion," a two-year-old movie. The film was adapted with most of the same cast into CBS's "Daktari" series, thus it was like seeing a new episode of an old series.

ABC's "Hondo" and "The Guns of Will Sonnett," also on Friday, were routine westerns— even the dialogue was familiar. "High Chaparral" will undoubtedly benefit from the structure and careful scripting of the series. Produced by the man who created "Bonanza," this new western centered on two mature brothers, one substantial, the other carefree.

The opening program, "Judd for the Defense," had a crazy, mixed-up script but in spite of these problems Carl Betz turned in a convincing and interesting performance as a lawyer in what might be a good courtroom series.

If You Were the Judge

Father Can Collect From Abortionist

By Jack Strauss, LL.B

Mrs. Jones went to town and found herself an abortionist when she discovered that birth control could not be made retroactive. A month later, Mr. Jones discovered his near brush with fatherhood, and, becoming outraged at his lost opportunity, he sued the abortionist for depriving him of becoming a father.

"He can't sue me," protested the abortionist in court. "If he's got a complaint, he can take it up with his wife but not with me. She's the one who hired me and she consented to the operation."

"What my wife did has nothing to do with me," retorted Mr. Jones. "By performing the abortion, he uprooted my family tree. And, he did it without my permission. After all, I was the one who was going to be the father and not her."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant damages to the disappointed father?

This is how the judge ruled: Mr. Jones collected. The judge held that a husband has a legally protected interest in an unborn child that is separate and apart from his wife's interest in the child. That, therefore, a wife's consent to an abortion does not bar her husband's claim for a direct invasion of his legally protected interests.

The two groups of Sikeston students formed a unit of one to finish most of their clinical experience and education in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The students and instructors attended a lecture on mental retardation Aug. 31. At the meeting here in Sikeston, the speaker was Dr. Harold Robb, Jefferson City, associate director of Sikeston Area of Retarded Children and associate director of mental division of the state.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

PRAYER: Like Thy servants in the past O Lord, who trusted and were blessed by Thy grace, we ask that we may plainly feel today Thy protection. Teach us to be faithful to Thee and to persist in our trust in Thy divine power. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Guards to Become Engineer Unit

CHARLESTON -- Charleston National Guard company probably will have to switch branches -- from infantry to engineer -- under a reorganization of the National Guard ordered by Washington.

The change will affect all infantry units in Southeast Missouri, and would become effective Jan. 1. The Pentagon turned down a request from the Midwestern Governors Conference for a delay in implementing the Guard reorganization.

Lt. Col. O. T. Dalton Jr. of Charleston, commander of the 1st Battalion, 140th infantry, with headquarters in Cape Girardeau, said his unit and the 2nd Battalion, headquartered in Poplar Bluff and commanded by Lt. Col. Harold LaBrot of Gideon, would be hard hit by the reorganization.

"Missouri will lose about 500 guard slots under the reorganization," Colonel Dalton said, "and Southeast Missouri's two battalions will lose about half the total figure. Instead of two infantry battalions in Southeast Missouri, there will be one full-strength engineer battalion," he said.

Major General Russell Boyt, who heads the 35th Division Command, with units in Missouri and Kansas, said there will be only one infantry battalion left in Missouri, and it will be assigned to the Special Ready Force (SRF). SRF units must be ready for call-up within seven days, according to Colonel Dalton.

Charleston's Company C is a unit of Colonel Dalton's battalion. "It appears likely," Dalton said, "that we will have to split our companies between two towns. For example," he said, "we must have two platoons of a company in one community, and two other platoons in a second town."

According to General Boyt, the new plan cuts down the number of units and command positions -- though the total Guard strength in Missouri would drop only 500 men. This is accomplished, he said by bringing more units to full strength according to the Table of Organization and Equipment of the Regular Army. By reducing the number of command positions, the re-organization drastically cuts the number of slots for officers.

This command situation, the two-star general pointed out, may fit well in the general plan when National Guard units are activated for federal missions, but for use in domestic situations within Missouri it could be more difficult. Activation of units that are split between communities is a problem, and with the new plan there might be as many as 40 men without a commissioned officer directly over them.

General Boyt also said that this is a precarious time for reorganization of the National Guard -- especially in cutting the strength. Recent activation of units to handle civil disturbances raises the question of whether current troop lists are even sufficient to handle civil disturbances should they break out in more than one area of a state. He indicated a deeper study might be valuable before the re-organization is carried out.

Apparently Gen. Boyt's ideas coincide with those of other Guard officers and several governors. Last week those attending the Midwest Governors' Conference at the Lake of the Ozarks, including Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, asked for a delay in the re-organization. They based their request on a need for further study of troop strengths and that the re-organization operation would interfere with intensive riot control training ordered by Washington.

The Pentagon rejected the request in a telegram to the governors last Wednesday. Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor said the Defense Department hopes to start the reorganization by Nov. 1 and complete it by May 1963. Resor's telegram said it is "essential that our reorganization be completed by next May in order that all units will be in their new configuration prior to summer field training and also be ready to respond to any contingency, either federal or state."

Guards to Become Engineer Unit

CHARLESTON -- Charleston National Guard company probably will have to switch branches -- from infantry to engineer -- under a reorganization of the National Guard ordered by Washington.

The change will affect all infantry units in Southeast Missouri, and would become effective Jan. 1. The Pentagon turned down a request from the Midwestern Governors Conference for a delay in implementing the Guard reorganization.

Lt. Col. O. T. Dalton Jr. of Charleston, commander of the 1st Battalion, 140th infantry, with headquarters in Cape Girardeau, said his unit and the 2nd Battalion, headquartered in Poplar Bluff and commanded by Lt. Col. Harold LaBrot of Gideon, would be hard hit by the reorganization.

"Missouri will lose about 500 guard slots under the reorganization," Colonel Dalton said, "and Southeast Missouri's two battalions will lose about half the total figure. Instead of two infantry battalions in Southeast Missouri, there will be one full-strength engineer battalion," he said.

Major General Russell Boyt, who heads the 35th Division Command, with units in Missouri and Kansas, said there will be only one infantry battalion left in Missouri, and it will be assigned to the Special Ready Force (SRF). SRF units must be ready for call-up within seven days, according to Colonel Dalton.

Charleston's Company C is a unit of Colonel Dalton's battalion. "It appears likely," Dalton said, "that we will have to split our companies between two towns. For example," he said, "we must have two platoons of a company in one community, and two other platoons in a second town."

According to General Boyt, the new plan cuts down the number of units and command positions -- though the total Guard strength in Missouri would drop only 500 men. This is accomplished, he said by bringing more units to full strength according to the Table of Organization and Equipment of the Regular Army. By reducing the number of command positions, the re-organization drastically cuts the number of slots for officers.

This command situation, the two-star general pointed out, may fit well in the general plan when National Guard units are activated for federal missions, but for use in domestic situations within Missouri it could be more difficult. Activation of units that are split between communities is a problem, and with the new plan there might be as many as 40 men without a commissioned officer directly over them.

General Boyt also said that this is a precarious time for reorganization of the National Guard -- especially in cutting the strength. Recent activation of units to handle civil disturbances raises the question of whether current troop lists are even sufficient to handle civil disturbances should they break out in more than one area of a state. He indicated a deeper study might be valuable before the re-organization is carried out.

Apparently Gen. Boyt's ideas coincide with those of other Guard officers and several governors. Last week those attending the Midwest Governors' Conference at the Lake of the Ozarks, including Gov. Warren E. Hearnes of Missouri, asked for a delay in the re-organization. They based their request on a need for further study of troop strengths and that the re-organization operation would interfere with intensive riot control training ordered by Washington.

The Pentagon rejected the request in a telegram to the governors last Wednesday. Army Secretary Stanley R. Resor said the Defense Department hopes to start the reorganization by Nov. 1 and complete it by May 1963.

Resor's telegram said it is "essential that our reorganization be completed by next May in order that all units will be in their new configuration prior to summer field training and also be ready to respond to any contingency, either federal or state."

New Shows Take TV Spotlight

NEW YORK (AP) -- New programs and special programs were in oversupply in a busy weekend of television network broadcasting. Viewers, even if they only wanted to sample new wares, needed fortitude, comfortable chairs and, above all, strong eyes.

Seven new programs had their premiers and two of them, ABC's "Judd for the Defense," on Friday, and NBC's "High Chaparral," on Sunday, seemed to be a cut above the season's current average.

It was undoubtedly merely coincidence, but three programs were marathons for the audience. ABC's "Africa" occupied four solid Sunday night hours, while "High Chaparral" occupied two. The live "Miss America Pageant" on NBC Saturday was, as usual, two hours long.

"Africa," certainly one of the most costly, ambitious programs undertaken by a network news department was a cram course on the land, fauna and politics of that continent. It handled the unwieldy subject by chapters -- a half hour on animals; 15 minutes on anthropology and then concentrated on Nigeria alone for a while.

But it was just too much and too long. It is something that the network will be bragging about, but from the viewers standpoint it would have been better broken up into a series of four one-hour programs shown on consecutive nights.

"Miss America" this time out seemed to have prettier and more talented girls than usual and the entertainment portion of the show, sometimes painfully amateurish, had more professional polish than in other seasons.

"Off to See the Wizard" an ABC children's show along the lines of NBC's Walt Disney hour, had the misfortune of starting with a rerun of "Clarence the Cross-Eyed Lion," a two-year-old movie. The film was adapted with most of the same cast into CBS's "Daktari" series, thus it was like seeing a new episode of an old series.

ABC's "Hondo" and "The Guns of Will Sonnett," also on Friday, were routine westerns -- even the dialogue was familiar. "High Chaparral" will undoubtedly benefit from the structure and careful scripting of the series. Produced by the man who created "Bonanza," this new western centered on two mature brothers, one substantial, the other carefree.

The opening program, "Judd for the Defense," had a crazy, mixed-up script but in spite of these problems Carl Betz turned in a convincing and interesting performance as a lawyer in what might be a good courtroom series.

If You Were the Judge

Father Can Collect From Abortionist

By Jack Strauss, LL.B

Mrs. Jones went to town and found herself an abortionist when she discovered that birth control could not be made retroactive. A month later, Mr. Jones discovered his near brush with fatherhood, and, becoming outraged at his lost opportunity, he sued the abortionist for depriving him of becoming a father.

"He can't sue me," protested the abortionist in court. "If he's got a complaint, he can take it up with his wife but not with me. She's the one who hired me and she consented to the operation."

"What my wife did has nothing to do with me," retorted Mr. Jones. "By performing the abortion, he uprooted my family tree. And, he did it without my permission. After all, I was the one who was going to be the father and not her."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you grant damages to the disappointed father?

This is how the judge ruled: Mr. Jones collected. The judge held that a husband has a legally protected interest in an unborn child that is separate and apart from his wife's interest in the child. That, therefore, a wife's consent to an abortion does not bar her husband's claim for a direct invasion of his legally protected interests.

Nurses Hold Luncheon

The Student Practical Nurses class held a luncheon Aug. 11 as it was time for the group from Kennett, to return for their clinical education in the Dunklin County Memorial Hospital.

The class finished their pre-clinical education Aug. 11.

The Sikeston group was divided into two groups. One group had their clinical experience at the Shuffits Nursing Home and the other group worked in the Missouri Delta Community hospital. The two groups of Sikeston students formed a unit of one to finish most of their clinical experience and education in the Missouri Delta Community Hospital.

The students and instructors attended a lecture on mental retardation Aug. 31. At the meeting here in Sikeston, the speaker was Dr. Harold Robb, Jefferson City, associate director of Sikeston Area of Retarded Children and associate director of mental division of the state.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

Thou hast said, "seek ye my face." My heart says to thee, "Thy face, Lord, do I seek." (Psalm 27:8, RSV)

PRAYER: Like Thy servants in the past O Lord, who trusted and were blessed by Thy grace, we ask that we may plainly feel today Thy protection. Teach us to be faithful to Thee and to persist in our trust in Thy divine power. For Jesus' sake. Amen.
